Mme. Simone, prosperous lady farmer, frowns upon the love of her daughter, Lisette, for Colin, a poor peasant lad, preferring to mate her with Alain, the witless son of a rich vine-grower. Besides placing every possible obstacle in the path of the lovers, Mme. Simone has the village notary draw a marriage contract between Lisette and Alain. Just as it is about to be signed, the girl and Colin are discovered in the hayloft. The negotiations are called off. Mme. Simone finally relents and Lisette and Colin are united.

THE OLD WORLD'S youngest and most exciting major symphony orchestra, the NDR Symphony Orchestra of Hamburg, is being introduced to the New World this season. Young in spirit as well as in years, the orchestra has won acclaim throughout Europe both for the freshness of its approach to the works of the old masters and for its boldness in premiering the works of contemporary composers. With such a reputation for zest and verve preceding its arrival in this country, the initial American tour of 24 key cities was quickly sold out.

Because of the demands of European commitments on both the orchestra and its two distinguished conductors, this first tour is limited in

PROGRAM

Symphony in D major, K. 385 ("Haffner")

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart
(1756-1791)

Allegro con spirito

Andante

Menuetto

Finale: Presto

The rather curious title of this symphony originated from the fact that Mozart wrote it for a festive occasion at the home of Sigmund Haffner, a rich merchant, and at the time the burgomaster of the composer's native city of Salzburg. Like almost everything else, Mozart wrote the symphony in the greatest haste. When he examined the score somewhat later, he found that it was much better than he had remembered. It is, indeed, one of his symphonic masterpieces.

Allegro con spirito: The movement begins with a few sturdy measures for full orchestra, followed more gently by strings. The main theme echoes in woodwinds and lower strings and goes into rapid runs for the violins.

Andante: A very simple melody sings in the first violins. Sighing, the oboe and bassoon respond. The figuration becomes more graceful and florid, then sinks to a cadence.

Menuetto: In some ways the theme reminds one of the much later Minuet from the E-flat Symphony. The Trio is said by Philip Hale to remind him of an aria from an early opera of Mozart called "La Finta Giardiniera." Violins, oboes and bassoons have the melody.

Finale (Presto): The last movement is a Rondo of the liveliest variety, sparkling with good humor and sunniest cheer. Strings begin alone. Now, the lower parts play rapidly against rhythmic chords. Suddenly the tumult hushes, and the lighter second subject is heard in the first violins. The end is gay and dashing.

Variations on a Theme of Paganini, Opus 26

Boris Blacher
(1903-)

Blacher wrote his "Variations on a Theme of Paganini" in 1947. The theme can be traced in its original form to Paganini's Caprice No. 24, for unaccompanied violin. The same theme was used by Brahms, Schumann, Liszt and Rachmaninoff in variation or etude form.

After the theme is announced quasi presto by solo violin, a flourish of scales and a powerful chord introduce the first of the sixteen variations, in which swift descending scales in the woodwinds, soon inverted, run over fragments of the theme in the bass clarinet. In the second variation the theme, more remote, is sounded in the bassoons against a triple and syncopated figure in the solo oboe. The theme in the third variation is suggested in scalewise passages in the violins and violas against an underlying 6/8 rhythm. A syncopated theme is in high strings and clarinets, with staccato accents in horns and bassoons. Other instruments form a brilliant rhythmic development. The short fourth variation is entirely in the strings. The fifth variation is scherzo-like and very brief. The woodwinds repeat a characteristic motive over a running figure in the clarinets. In the sixth variation many unexpected and intriguing rhythmic effects are heard over a strong bass line. Violins and trumpet sound the theme, surrounded by running scales, in the seventh variation. Brilliant figurations occur in the woodwinds. Variation No. 8 is in three parts: the first in pizzicato strings, the second a quiet contrast in clarinets and flutes with glissando effects, the third in horns. A dramatic pause interrupts the returning part two and indicates the half-way mark in the variations.

The ninth variation in full orchestra is largely contrapuntal in its texture. Variation No. 10 opens with a flute solo and continues with the clarinet. It is written in a lyric mood over a pizzicato contrabass. Shifting harmonies create a shimmering texture in the eleventh variation. There is an allusion to the theme in the strings. The twelfth variation develops a motive of the theme. Inversions and imitations build to a climax, recede, and rise again. Woodwinds engage in a canonic development in the thirteenth variation. The theme is announced in Variation No. 14 in the violas, later in the violins. Tympani and basses form a consistently recurring bass (ostinato) on E, B-flat, E. The fifteenth variation is another three-part form. Part one is in full orchestra (horns dominating) alternating in staccato chordal effects from 4/4 to 5/4 meter. Part two is in 4/4 meter with clarinet cadenza. Part one returns and leads directly into the culminating sixteenth variation. Here pizzicato bass (ostinato) in original 2/4 meter underlies whirling, rapidly changing passages in the violins. The work ends on a flourish comparable to that heard at the introduction to Variation No. 1.

INTERMISSION

Symphony No. 3 in E flat major, Opus 55 ("Eroica")

Ludwig van Beethoven
(1770-1827)

Allegro con brio

Marcia funebre: Adagio assai

Scherzo: Allegro vivace

Finale: Allegro molto

"Eroica" is said to have been Beethoven's own favorite among his nine symphonies. Originally he dedicated it to Napoleon but when Bonaparte declared himself Emperor, the democratic Beethoven was outraged and changed the title page to read: "Heroic symphony composed to celebrate the memory of a great man."

Beginning with two quick and mighty staccato chords, the first movement proceeds directly to the subject which is heard somewhat tentatively but clearly in the cellos. A few minutes later it is repeated boldly and vigorously in octaves by the horns, clarinets and basses. About the straightforward, rather military theme Beethoven has built a structure of urgent sound. Occasionally the theme is heard in one or another of the many choirs of the orchestra, dominating the elaboration. After the introduction of the contrasting theme, led between the woodwinds and violins, both motifs are developed superbly. Despite powerful ideas projected throughout the orchestra and culminating in a succession of useful tones, the simple utterance at the beginning of the basic portion of the movement fails.

The significance of the music of the second movement is unmistakable. The slow march can be only that of a funeral march, the first to appear in a symphony. The theme though originally presented quietly and sadly is sometimes expressed vehemently. Then the oboe, which of all the orchestral voices can be the most sorrowful, comes the sad beautiful melody, to answer the melancholy utterances of the bass. Later, another very important theme by the strings is introduced and the two subjects developed.

The swift vigor of the opening notes of the Scherzo contrasts sharply with the dirge which is a relief to its solemnity. A murmuring in the strings played lightly but swiftly and rhythmically becomes tumultuous sound. In the delightful trio a subject like a hunting call is announced by the horns and is answered soon by the whole orchestra. It is repeated fully by the horns and for a moment the other instruments respond with a suggestion of sadness. Then the unexpected joy of the opening part of the movement returns in the climactic climax.

The Finale opens with a brilliant passage for all the strings, increasing in volume as it reaches the lower registers and ending in a succession of powerful chords by the full orchestra. Then the theme is announced, plucked simply by the strings. Upon repetition it is echoed by the woodwinds in unison imitating each note half a measure behind the strings. After the strong and spirited opening of the movement, this chief theme is somewhat foreboding but its developments are brilliant. Later it is combined with a new and more powerful idea. The movement now elaborates upon the tonal and contrapuntal aspects of the two simple themes. Each instrument presents its version against contrasting phrases from the rest of the orchestra. A transitional period during which are heard the themes of previous movements leads to the triumphant and overwhelming finale.

time to four weeks and in area to the northeast and midwest. After opening engagements in Newark's Mosque Theatre and New York's Carnegie Hall, the orchestra is performing in such important cities as Boston, Detroit and Chicago, as far south as Louisville and Nashville, and finally in the nation's capital.

The tour has been arranged by André Mertens, chairman of the board of Columbia Artists Management, Inc., who has been responsible for introducing to this country the great Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra and many outstanding European artists.

At the head of the orchestra is the dynamic German conductor Dr. Hans Schmidt-Isserstedt, its founder and permanent musical director. Schmidt-Isserstedt is one of the most eminent of European musicians who has conducted more than eighty symphony orchestras throughout the world. Last season he made a profound impression in his first American performances, as guest conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, both in the Quaker City and in New York, and later with the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

Schmidt-Isserstedt is sharing conductorial responsibilities on this tour with the brilliant young Hungarian conductor Istvan Kertesz. In only six years after escaping from his Communist-occupied homeland during the ill-fated Hungarian revolution, this amazing artist has established an enviable reputation throughout Europe in guest appearances with most of the major symphony orchestras and many of the leading opera houses of the West. He, too, made his American debut last season, as guest of the Detroit and Minneapolis Symphonies. At the age of thirty, he is considered to be one of the most remarkable talents to appear on the international music scene in generations.

Founded immediately after the end of World War II as the orchestra of the Norddeutscher Rundfunk (North German Radio), the NDR Symphony Orchestra of Hamburg quickly rose to prominence through its concerts on the air and in the concert hall, at home and on tour. It was the first German orchestra to be invited to appear in Paris and London after the war and, in 1961, it became the first West European ensemble to tour the Soviet Union since the cessation of hostilities. The orchestra has also appeared at such great international festivals as Paris, Venice, Athens, Baalbek, Montreux, Berlin, and Edinburgh.

None of Carl Orff's major works for the theater has been designated by the composer as an opera. Die Kluge, written in 1941-42, is called simply "The Story of the King and the Wise Woman." As he tells it, the story begins in the prison where a recently incarcerated peasant laments his fate. While plowing his field he had turned up a golden mortar. He was about to rush off to the king, to present him with the treasure. The mortar, having been found on the king's property, belonged, of course, to the king. The peasant was confident of an appropriate reward but his daughter was skeptical. "Throw it in the water or bury it," she had said. "The king will want the pestle, too, and he will never believe that you didn't find both. He will lock you up in the tower until you produce it." The peasant had disregarded this advice and, just as his daughter had predicted, had arrived in the condition in which we find him at the rise of the curtain. The king hears the peasant's loud outcries and demands that the peasant tell his story to him. The king sends for the peasant's daughter. In spoken dialogue three tramps exchange thoughts appropriate to the situation in the manner of a morality play or an old Commedia dell'Arte. The king tells the peasant's clever daughter that he is not interested in the pestle. Later on they can find that together. But first he wants the solutions to three riddles. If she can solve them, she may then go free. The first riddle: A guest arrives, neither mounted, nor on foot, nor on wing. After his entry into the inn, the building falls apart through the windows. Who is the guest? The peasant's daughter answers: "The guest can be no other than a fish. A fish neither rides, nor walks, nor flies. It swims. The fisherman's net is the house. The fisherman pulls up the net and the water flows out through the holes." The second riddle: An ivory bird hops up and down the land, consuming the miller and the millstone, the farmer and his farm. What is the bird? She replies: "I know the ivory bird. It is a die. Dice have consumed many a man and all his property." The third riddle: A millstone floated upon the water. On it sat three men, one blind, one lame, the third naked. The blind man saw a rabbit. The lame man ran after it and caught it. The naked man put it in his pocket. What was it? She replied: "The deaf man hears it, the dumb man tells it abroad. What cannot be, nor could have been, is—a lie!" The king is so impressed by this accomplishment that he not only frees her, but also takes her to be his queen. The peasant is released and all other prisoners amnestied, with a kingly injunction to get drunk. Again we meet the three tramps with their words of homely wisdom. They are joined by a muleteer and a donkey man, between whom there is a legal dispute. They all repair to the palace to lay the dispute before the king. They find him at a palace window playing games with the queen. He is annoyed by the noisy intrusion, but finally directs that one of them tell his story. The donkey man explains that he had stabled his donkey next to the muleteer's mule. During the night the donkey had born a colt. In the morning the muleteer had found the colt lying closer to his mule than to the donkey and had claimed it as his own, basing the claim on the old principle that an apple belongs to him on whose property it falls. The king, who has just lost his game to the queen, and is out of sorts and patience, rules quickly in favor of the muleteer. That evening we meet the donkey man, much put out. He is calling every kind of malediction down upon the king when he becomes aware of a strange female figure in the background. Refusing to identify herself, she advises him to do just as she directs him, if he would have his colt returned. He will hear from her further, she says, before the day is out. Meanwhile, the three tramps approach the prison and demand of the jailer that he give them wine. In the ensuing bacchanale occur lines which miraculously escaped the

SOLI DEO GLORIA

CHORALE FROM CANTATA 159..... Johann Sebastian Bach

"Jesus' death and bitter pain, Jesus' tribulation, caused our mortal clay to gain healing and salvation.
Christians, put your cares away, leave your sins behind you, verily will Judgement Day with the angels find you.

Jesus, from Thy passion came all our hearts' elation.
All Thy suffering and shame were for our salvation.
So my spirit blossoms forth, when I pause to ponder on the blissful days to come up in heaven yonder."

PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN B MINOR, BWV 544.....J.S. Bach

"ACH, JESUS GEHT ZU SEINER PEIN." A Cantata for Quinquagesima SundayJohann Balthasar König

CHORUS: "Ach, Jesus geht zu seiner Pein, zur Schmach, zum Tod, zu Höllenschmerzen! Ach Mensch, wie mag in deinem Herzen ein Tropfen Blut zur Weltlust sein?
Besinne dich und denke dran, warum er diesen Gang getan."

(Ah, Jesus goes to His pain, to shame, to death, to agonies of Hell. O Man, how could your heart long for worldly pleasure? Remember and ponder why
He made this journey.)

THE GOSPEL FOR QUINQUAGESIMA SUNDAY

ST. LUKE 18: 31-43

"Then Jesus took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man shall be accomplished. For he shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and they shall scourge him, and put him to death; and the third day he shall rise again. And they understood none of these things: and this saying was hid from them, neither knew they the things which were spoken. And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the wayside begging: and hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant. And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by. And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me. And they which went before him rebuked him, that he should hold his peace: but he cried so much the more, Thou son of David, have mercy on me. And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him, saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight. And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee. And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God: and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God."

CANTATA 22, "Jesus nahm zu sich die Zwölfe." For Quinquagesima Sunday. For solo ATB, Chorus, Oboe, Strings, and Continuo.....J.S. Bach

ARIOSO, ARIA, and CHORUS:

Tenor: "Jesus, calling then the twelve to Him, said:"

Bass: "Come now, we go up hence to Jerusalem and thus-wise all things will happen, all things be thus accomplished which were prophesied of the Son of Man."

Chorus: "But they understood not His meaning nor did they know what things He spoke to them."

ARIA, Alto:

"My Savior, take me, take Thou me, I would away with Thee today and in Jerusalem would share Thy Cross with Thee. Ah, me! Twere well I knew the price that Thou hast paid, Thy sacrifice, to gain me Paradise. Ah! This were well for me."

CANTATA 23, "Du wahrer Gott und David's Sohn." For Quinquagesima Sunday. For solo Tenor, Chorus Oboes
1 and 2, Strings, and ContinuoJ.S. Bach

DUET, Soprano and Alto:

"Thou very God and David's Son, Thou who, ere Adam was or Time had yet begun, foresaw my woes, my mortal agony and all my sorrow knows, be kind to me! Do Thou with Thy Magician's Hand preserve and guard Thy faithful band, and give us steadfast hope and comfort."

RECITATIVE, Tenor:

"Ah, pass Thou not now by me, O pass Thou not now
by me, Thou who of all mankind has been the Savior!
For Thou didst come to heal the sick and not the healthy. I pray Thee likewise of Thy strength give me a share. When I am with mortal ills coping, and in the dark am blindly groping, then may I find Thee there! Receive Thou me! I leave not Thee until Thou shalt have blessed me."

CHORUS:

"All our eyes are waiting, Lord, waiting Mighty Lord God, on Thee, mine of all most eagerly. Give us of Thy strength, give light, leave us not evermore to be in darkness. Thine approval is the prize guiding star in all men's eyes, their delight which comforteth. Bide with us until in death one day Thou shalt will to close them."

CHORALE, Chorus:

"Lamb of God, Lord Jesus, Thou who bore the sins of man, have mercy on us! Lamb of God, Lord Jesus, Thou who bore the sins of man, have mercy on us!
Lamb of God, Lord Jesus, Thou who bore the sins of man, grant us Thy peace, Lord. Amen." (Chorale melody: "Christe, Du Lamm Gottes.").

PROGRAM NOTES

Concerto for String Orchestra, Op. 6, No. 10 Guiseppe Torelli
(b. Verona, 1658; d. Bologna, 1709)

Guiseppe Torelli, Italian violinist and composer, was employed in Bologna from 1689 to 1701 as leader for a church orchestra. In 1701 he accepted the position of orchestra leader for the Margrave of Brandenburg-Ansbach and remained in this post until shortly before his death. Torelli's works, along with those of his Bologna colleagues, helped the concerto to emerge as a concert piece in opposition to its progenitors, the concerti ecclesiastici and the concerti da chiesa. According to Arnold Schering there are three types of Baroque concerti; the concerto sinfonia, the concerto grosso and the solo concerto. The concerto performed tonight, with its sections of contrasting tempo and mood, is of the first type.

TEXT OF THE MASS

KYRIE

Kyrie eleison,
Christe eleison,
Kyrie eleison.

Lord, have mercy upon us,
Christ, have mercy upon us,
Lord, have mercy upon us.

GLORIA

Gloria in excelsis Deo, et in terra pax hominibus
bonae voluntatis.
Laudamus te, benedicimus te,
adoramus te, glorificamus te.
Gratias agimus tibi,
propter magnam gloriam tuam,
Domine Deus, Rex coelestis,
Deus Pater omnipotens.
Domine Fili unigenite, Jesu Christe,
Domine Deus, Agnus Dei, Filius Patris,
Qui tollis peccata mundi,
miserere nobis,
suscipe deprecationem nostram;
Qui sedes ad dexteram Patris,
miserere nobis.
Quoniam tu solus sanctus,
tu solus Dominus,
tu solus altissimus, Jesu Christe,
cum Sancto Spiritu,
in gloria Dei Patris. Amen.

Glory be to God on high,
and on earth, peace to men of good will.
We praise thee, we bless thee,
we adore thee, we glorify thee.
We give thanks to thee
for thy great glory,
Lord God, heavenly King,
God the Father Almighty.
Lord the only begotten Son, Jesus Christ,
Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father,
Who takest away the sins of the world,
have mercy upon us,
receive our prayer;
Who sitteth at the right hand of the Father,
have mercy upon us.
For thou only art holy,
thou only art the Lord,
thou only art the most high, Jesus Christ,
with the Holy Ghost,
in the glory of God the Father. Amen.

CREDO

Credo in unum Deum, Patrem omnipotentem,
factorem coeli et terrae,
visibilium omnium et invisibilium.
Et in unum Dominum Jesum Christum,
Filium Dei unigenitum,
Et ex Patre natum ante omnia saecula;
Deum de Deo, lumen de lumine,
Deum verum de Deo vero;
genitum, non factum;
con substantialem Patri,
per quem omnia facta sunt;
Qui propter nos homines et propter nostram salutem descendit de coelis.
Et incarnatus est de Spiritu Sancto,
ex Maria Virgine,
et homo factus est.
Crucifixus etiam pro nobis,
sub Pontio Pilato, passus et sepultus est.
Et resurrexit tertia die
secundum Scripturas, et ascendit in coelum,
sedet ad dexteram Patris;

I believe in one God,
Father Almighty,
maker of heaven and earth
and of all things visible and invisible.
And in one Lord, Jesus Christ,
the only begotten Son of God.
Born of the Father before all ages;
God of God, light of light,
Very God of Very God;
begotten, not made,
of one substance with the Father,
by whom all things were made;
Who for us men
and for our salvation
came down from heaven.
And became incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary and was made man.
And was crucified also for us
under Pontius Pilate, suffered and was buried.
And the third day he rose again,
according to the scriptures,
and ascended into heaven,
and sitteth on the right hand of the Father;

et iterum venturus est cum gloria judicare vivos et mortuos;
 cujus regni non erit finis.
 Et in spiritum sanctum,
 Dominum et vivificantem,
 qui ex Patre Filioque procedit,
 qui cum Patre et Filio
 simul adoratur et conglorificatur, qui locutus est per prophetas.
 Et in unam sanctam catholicam et apostolicam ecclesiam.
 Confiteor unum baptisma in remissionem peccatorum,
 Et expecto resurrectionem mortuorum, et vitam venturi saeculi. Amen.

and he shall come again with glory to judge the living and the dead;
 whose kingdom shall have no end.
 And in the Holy Ghost,
 the lord and life-giver,
 who proceedeth from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son together is adored and glorified, who spake by the prophets.
 And in one holy catholic and apostolic Church.
 I acknowledge one baptism
 for the remission of sins,
 And I expect the resurrection of the dead,
 and the life of the world to come. Amen.

SANCTUS

Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus, Dominus Deus Sabaoth, pleni sunt coeli et terra gloria tua.
 Osanna in excelsis.

Holy, Holy, Holy,
 Lord God of hosts,
 heaven and earth are full of thy glory.
 Hosanna in the highest.

BENEDICTUS

Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini.
 Osanne in excelsis.

Blessed is he who cometh
 in the name of the Lord.
 Hosanna in the highest.

AGNUS DEI

Agnus Dei,
 qui tollis peccata mundi,
 miserere nobis,
 dona nobis pacem.

Lamb of God,
 who takest away the sins of the world,
 have mercy upon us,
 give us peace.

Elegischer Gesang, Op. 118 Ludwig van Beethoven
(b. Bonn, 1770; d. Vienna, 1827)

The Elegiac Song was composed in 1814 in memory of the wife of Baron Pasqualati, Beethoven's landlord and friend to whom the score is dedicated. Here, within a small frame and using the simplest materials (the original scoring is for four voices and string quartet), Beethoven has given us a work both moving and pious, somewhat reminiscent of Mozart's immortal Maurerische Trauermusik. The German text (origin unknown) and a free translation of it follows:

Sanft wie du lebstest hast du volendet,	As gently as you lived have you passed away,
zu heilig für den Schmerz!	too fragile for life's pain!
Kein Auge wein' ob des himmlischen	Yet no eye should weep over the return
Geistes Heimkehr.	of the spirit to its heavenly home.

Mass in A, Op. 66 Joseph Messner
(b. Schwaz, Tyrol, 1893)

Austrian organist, musicologist and composer, Joseph Messner was appointed as cathedral organist in Salzburg in 1922 and Dom Kapellmeister in 1926. Professor Messner, who is also Director of the Church Music Seminary attached to the Mozarteum, has conducted the cathedral performances at the Salzburg Festival since 1926. Although he has written five Masses and a variety of shorter sacred works, it is interesting to note that the composer's output is primarily secular in nature and includes a number of operas and symphonies. During the summer of 1960, touring members of the Choral Union heard the Mass in A as part of a Sunday morning service in the Salzburg Dom.

Mass in C Major, K. 317 ("Coronation" Mass)
Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart
(b. Salzburg, 1756; d. Vienna, 1791)

The "Coronation" Mass, written in 1779, is the next to last of Mozart's 15 settings of the Mass. It was composed for the fifth Sunday after Pentecost, a Sunday dedicated at the Church of Maria Plain above Salzburg to the commemoration of the crowning of a picture of the Virgin in that church in 1751. That the composer was pleased with the work is at least implied by his subsequent request to his father that the score be sent to him so that he might show it to his Mannheim friends. Scored in Mozart's "Salzburg fashion" (i.e., no violas and with the trombones doubling the lower three voices), it is full of marvelous and unexpected turns and touches of color and emotional intensity. Note for example the repetition of the Kyrie-Andante for the Dona Nobis Pacem as it brings the Mass to a particularly ingratiating conclusion; the lovely soprano solo in the Agnus Dei (to be transformed some six years later into the Countess's aria, "Dove Sono," in the Marriage of Figaro); the repetition of the Benedictus (in part) and the Osanna (in full) following the first exposition of this movement; and the reiteration of the intonation sentence, "Credo in unum Deum," as a stirring conclusion to the Credo. Still another example of the composer's ingenuity is the elision of the final "est" of the Crucifixus, a choral pianissimo, and the forte entrance of the orchestra using the opening Credo theme as a vehicle for the "Et resurrexit," a most unusual touch in 18th century sacred music.

Toccata in D minor Johann Jacob Froberger
(1616-1667)

Johann Jacob Froberger was one of the many gifted students to study with Frescobaldi in Italy. Although there are few of his original manuscripts available, enough have been preserved to establish a definite style. This Toccata may be said to be typical of the organ toccatas of Froberger and his contemporaries of the South German school.

The Toccata in D minor has three distinct sections: the first contains long sustained chords with florid scale passages, the second is imitative with the subject being stated ten times. In this section a chromatic theme, so typical of the period, is introduced as a counter-subject to the first. The third section takes this counter-subject with a change of meter (12/8) and tempo and develops another short fugue. The toccata ends with a short coda reminiscent of the first section.

Two Chorale Preludes: Johann Sebastian Bach
(1685-1750)

1. Allein Gott in der Höh' sei Ehr' (BWV 663)
(All Glory Be to God on High)
2. Jesus Christus, unser Heiland (BWV 665)
(Jesus Christ Our Lord and Saviour)

These two chorale preludes come from the so-called "Leipzig Eighteen", a collection of chorale preludes compiled by Bach in the last years of his life while at St. Thomaskirche in Leipzig. The setting of "Allein Gott. . ." is a very ornamented treatment of the Lutheran Chorale version of the Gloria. The second chorale prelude is a Pachelbelian treatment of the communion chorale, "Jesus Christ, unser Heiland." Each line is found stated in the pedal with extended fugal expositions based on the chorale.

Toccata and Fugue in F major (BWV 539) J. S. Bach

The "Toccata and Fugue in F major" has several interesting facets about it that are worth noting. The toccata contains the only high F' ever written by Bach for the pedals. This is quite a revealing fact since the pedal organs of Bach's day were made one note lower, ranging from low C to e'; the only exception to this was the organ at Cbthen for which this piece was undoubtedly written. The fugue is one of only three double fugues which he composed for the organ.

The Toccata has a rather complex structure. It begins with a two-voice canon over a sustained pedal F followed by a long pedal solo. These two sections are then repeated in the dominant. Following this, full organ is employed to the end with the exception of three softer development sections where the canon motive is exploited. The final section is ushered in by a long pedal scale descending to the lowest C.

The fugue contains two subjects, one developed on the Great organ and the second on the lighter Positiv. At the end of the second fugue both subjects are combined in a truly ingenious manner.

INTERVAL

Sonata in F minor	Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy
Allegro moderato e serioso	(1809-1847)
Adagio
Andante recitando
Allegro assai vivace

Mendelssohn composed six organ sonatas in the year 1844 of which F minor is the first, longest, and probably the most exciting. Due to his extreme interest in the music of J. S. Bach, many of his works are based on Chorales of the Lutheran Church. The first movement of this sonata incorporates the chorale "Was mein Gott will geschah' all' Zeit" as soft interludes between fugal sections of much larger proportions. No further reference to the chorale is made in the lyrical second movement or in the striking third movement. But it returns, slightly altered in the final movement, and serves as the basis for a thrilling toccata.

Noël with Variations	Louis Claude d'Aquin
(from "Livre de Noëls" - #10)	(1694-1772)

In his "New Book of Noëls", dedicated to his friend Le Count D'Eu, Louis Claude Daquin brought to perfection the development of this charming tradition. His distinguished predecessors, LeBegue, Gigault and Raison, had already treated some of these melodies in their organ books. But no composer caught the subtle and varied charm of these folk melodies as did d'Aquin, enriching them with profusion of melody, variety of mood, subtlety of harmony and majesty of proclamation.

The French composers of the period, usually indicate the exact selection of stops to be used in the performance of their music. (This is not true in Germany for instance).

The "Book of Noëls" forms a musical diversion at times gay and

THE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE EXTENDS A WLECOME TO PARTICIPANTS

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONTEST PERSONNEL

FOR ALL: Be in the University Center at least 30 minutes prior to the opening of the contest.

ROOM CHAIRMEN:

1. You are in complete charge of the room.
2. Get copy of music and give it to the judge along with the judging sheet.
3. Announce name of auditioner, school, and composition before auditioner performs.
4. Check performance time before you begin with the office personnel.
5. STOP THOSE WHO RUN OVER. Do not allow excessive time for tuning. (This is included in the total time limit for each contestant.)
6. Check the criticism sheet to see that the judge has signed his name, circled the rating, and written in the rating.
7. Give the rating sheets to the office runner after each event is completed.
8. Protect the judge from interference while judging and the student from disturbance.
9. Help the student solve any conflicts, such as accompanists being assigned to two places.
10. Be sure to check that the judge has the proper criticism sheet before the auditioner begins.

DOORKEEPER:

1. While auditioner is performing, do not let anyone in or out of the room.
2. Collect auditioner's music at the door and give to the room chairman.
3. Keep order in the hallway as much as you can.
4. Work with the expediter in keeping things moving.

EXPEDITERS:

1. You are one of the most valuable workers, and your ability to "feed" performers to the audition room is the real secret of a successful contest. Have contestants warm up and ready to go on time. If scheduled contestant is late, get the next person ready. Do not allow the wrong person to use the warm up room unless asked to do so by the ones scheduled. (Each auditioner is due to have the room to himself for the period immediately preceding his appearance.)
2. If re-scheduling is necessary to keep the audition moving, see that this information is passed on to the room chairman.

INSTRUCTIONS TO PRINCIPALS, TEACHERS, AND PARTICIPANTS

This is the final copy of the Instrumental and Vocal Solos and Small Ensemble Events. Please inform students of their performance time.

Ratings will be posted on the bulletin board near the headquarters as soon as possible after an event is closed. NO RATINGS WILL BE GIVEN OUT OTHERWISE.

REGISTRATION is requested of all SENIOR DIVISION students. Please report to the Headquarters in the University Center as soon as you arrive. JUNIOR DIVISION students will not need to register.

TEACHERS: Please pick up the judges comment sheets before leaving the University Campus.

KENTUCKY STATE MUSIC FESTIVAL - LOUISVILLE DIVISION

sponsored by THE KENTUCKY MUSIC EDUCATORS ASSOCIATION

in cooperation with the UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE, Philip G. Davidson, President
SCHOOL OF MUSIC, Robert Whitney, Dean, and Robert B. Griffith, Manager of the Festival

CHORAL EVENTS :	University Center	March 22, 1963	1:00 p. m.
	University of Louisville	March 23, 1963	9:00 a. m.

THIS IS A COPY OF THE FINAL PROGRAM, INSTRUCTORS ARE ASKED TO NOTIFY THE SCHOOL OF MUSIC
IMMEDIATELY OF CANCELLATIONS.

Each organization has been assigned an assembly room. Please try to clear the room within an hour after your final performance. In some instances, the same room will be used by two different schools.

The Director and his students are completely responsible for their assembly room and its contents until the entire group has checked out. WE CANNOT BE RESPONSIBLE FOR LOST ARTICLES OR CLOTHING.

There is ample parking space for all in the Parkway Field Lot. Guests are requested not to park in the area marked "Faculty".

Refreshments are available in the University Cafeteria and/or Snack Bar.

Mr. Raper, Director of the University Bands will supply the following equipment: 2 timpani, bass drum, podium, chimes, and music stands. Bring all other equipment with you.

There will be three judges for all large events (choruses, choirs, orchestras, and bands). Three copies of the music must be supplied for the judges. Present these copies to the room chairman.

Both choral and instrumental groups will enter Bigelow Hall for performance by the main entrance, and will leave by the stage exits.

ALL FESTIVAL PARTICIPANTS ARE REQUESTED TO ENTER THE UNIVERSITY CENTER BY THE MAIN ENTRANCE, Facing west and the parking lot area.

Ratings will be posted on the bulletin board near the headquarters in the Main Lobby. No ratings will be given out over the phone. Rating sheets should be picked up immediately after performance.

All students are urged to hear other performing groups.

The Instrumental Section of the Kentucky State Music Festival, Louisville Division will be held in the University Center, University of Louisville, Belknap Campus on April 5, 1963 at 1:00 p. m. , and April 6, 1963 at 9:00 a. m.

We express our appreciation to everyone that has helped to expedite this event. It is sponsored by the University of Louisville as part of its public service. If you can suggest ways to improve it, write to the Manager.

Program Notes

Intermezzo, Op. 39, No. 2

I see you fresh and cheerful in my heart. Every hour my heart sings a beautiful old song that flies through the air to you.

Die Stille, Op. 39, No. 4

No one knows how I feel, I would but tell it to someone. The snow is still and quiet. I wish I were a little bird that could fly into heaven.

Mondnacht, Op. 39, No. 5

It seemed as though heaven and earth kissed. The air was soft, and the night was full of stars. My soul stretched to you.

Frühlingsnacht, Op. 39, No. 12

Over the garden, through the air I travel like a bird. The moon, the stars, the nightingales tell it. "She is thine."

Lucia di Lammermoor, Act III - (The Mad Scene)

The wedding guests still throng Lammermoor castle. Raimondo announces that Lucia has gone mad and has murdered her husband. Lucia slowly enters, and in her madness, imagines she sees her love, Edgardo. She goes through the torment and the joy of their love, at last being brought together as she goes through the wedding ceremony with Edgardo, in her imagination, thus bringing peace and happiness.

La Traviata, Act I

Alfredo attends a party at Violetta's. He tells her of his love. After bidding her guests farewell, Violetta ponders Alfredo's words, wanting to believe them, yet afraid to trust her love or his. She decides to return to her life of freedom and pleasure.

THE NEW YORK BRASS QUINTET

ROBERT NAGEL, trumpet

TED WEIS, trumpet

RAYMOND ALONGE, French horn

JOHN SWALLOW, trombone

HARVEY PHILLIPS, tuba

THE ONLY ENSEMBLE of its kind concertizing regularly throughout the world, the New York Brass Quintet was formed over seven years ago by a highly skilled group of instrumentalists. All graduates of Juilliard School of Music, its members had acquired both enormous experience and enviable prestige as individual performers in orchestras headed by such notables as Stokowski, Reiner, Stravinsky, Casals, and Bernstein.

Yet these superbly trained players felt a need to express themselves as individuals rather than as participants in a large orchestral body. Realizing that since the Second World War there had been a rapid growth of interest in brass music, the five instrumentalists decided to form a team, to recreate both the older Renaissance and baroque music for brasses and to establish a new chamber music for themselves. To this end, they have succeeded admirably.

PROGRAM

PART I.

Sonata (from "Die Bankelsangerlieder") (c. 1684)

Anonymous
(17th century)

This lively sonata is one of eighteen instrumental pieces included in a late seventeenth century collection of "Bench Singer Songs." Bench singers were popular itinerant musicians who related stories and current events in song.

Canzona Prima

Giovanni Gabrieli
(16th century)

The great sixteenth century Venetian master of polyphonic composition, Giovanni Gabrieli, wrote for St. Mark's Cathedral in Venice. The stereophonic grandeur of his antiphonal instrumental music is particularly realized in performance by modern brass instruments. The Canzona Prima, edited by Arnold Fromme, is apparently the only five-voice canzona by Gabrieli in existence. It offers an excellent example of the composer's consummate skill and genius.

Quintet in B flat minor, Opus 5

Victor Ewald
(19th century)

Moderato
Adagio—Allegro vivace—Adagio
Allegro moderato

This Quintet is one of the very few nineteenth century compositions in the brass chamber music repertoire. Despite the fact that it is an early work by an obscure Russian romanticist composer, it displays mature compositional skill as well as very effective idiomatic writing for the brass instruments. The first movement sets forth an exposition of themes, followed by a short development section, a recapitulation and a coda. The second movement is a combination of slow movement and scherzo movement in two contrasting sections, followed by a return of the slow section. The third movement is a march-like finale.

Quintet, Opus 73 (1961)

Malcolm Arnold
(20th century)

Allegro vivace
Chaconne
Con brio

The English composer, Malcolm Arnold is perhaps best known for his ballet music and his many motion picture film scores. Formerly a first chair symphonic trumpet player himself, Arnold is an expert composer for brass instruments. His enthusiasm for the artistry of the New York Brass Quintet prompted him to write the Quintet, Opus 73, especially for this group.

The first movement themes feature fanfare-like trumpet, chorale-like French horn, lyric trombone and sprightly tuba writing. The chaconne provides a beautiful slow movement which builds up to a climactic trombone cadenza and a dramatic ensemble climax before subsiding to a quiet close. The third movement is a brilliant rondo. The contrasting sections are related to such popular forms as jazz and the "beguine".

INTERMISSION

PART II.

Contrapunctus No. IX (from "Art of the Fugue")

Johann Sebastian Bach
(18th century)

Bach's monumental work, "Art of the Fugue", was written without any specific indication of instrumentation. The character of several of these Contrapuncti is quite suitable for performance by brass ensemble. The Contrapunctus No. IX was arranged for brass quintet by John Glasel.

Suite for Brass Quintet

Maestoso
Andante
Scherzo
Allegro

Ludwig Maurer
(19th century)

This Suite was arranged by Robert Nagel from a collection of twelve pieces for two trumpets, two E-flat horns and trombone by a little known violinist-composer who wrote mostly string music, and spent most of his career in Russia. The mixture of classic and romantic style makes this music unique in brass literature.

Intermezzo (from "Music for Brass Instruments")

Ingolf Dahl
(20th century)

The Intermezzo is the middle movement of an excellent contemporary brass composition by a California composer of Scandinavian descent. It is rather neo-classic in style. However, its melodic material has a definite folk-like quality. A brilliant cadenza for two trumpets provides the climax of the movement.

Impression of a Parade

Samuel Baron
(20th century)

Impression of a Parade is a descriptive piece which consists of free variations on the familiar tune, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home". The composer is the flutist of the New York Woodwind Quintet.

Sonatine

Eugene Bozza
(20th century)

Allegro
Largo
Allegro vivo
Adagio—Allegro vivo

Eugene Bozza is a contemporary French composer whose facile knowledge of the technical proficiency of modern brass players has created a brilliant and engaging work which is a challenge to the virtuosity of the brass quintet. The first movement of the Sonatine is lively and rhythmic. The second movement is lyrical and dramatic. The third movement is witty and sparkling scherzo. And the last movement begins in a dramatic mood, but it soon gives way to a fast and festive dance which concludes in a blaze of sound.

Armed with two trumpets (Robert Nagel and Ted Weis), French horn (Raymond Alonge), trombone (John Swallow), and tuba (Harvey Phillips), the New York Brass Quintet has achieved an amazing record. Since its inception, the ensemble has played for over one-hundred thousand children in the East, has made educational films, has concertized extensively throughout North America, and has been asked to record several of the works that have been composed especially for the group.

As Robert Nagel, the Quintet's spokesman and director, explains, "When we started, there was no contemporary repertoire for us at all." The brilliant, rich sonorities of the instrumental combination held great attraction for modern composers, however, and with the knowledge both of the increasing enthusiasm for brass music and the fact that a team of virtuosi were looking for new works and would in fact play them regularly, such distinguished composers as Richard Arnell, Malcolm Arnold, Alec Wilder, Eugene Bozza, and Gunther Schuller, to mention only a few, delightedly began creating music especially for the New York Brass Quintet.

The group's concerts are by no means restricted to modern compositions. Much of the music they play is pre-Bach in content, such as the antiphonal works of sixteenth and seventeenth century composers, for example, the canzonas of Giovanni Gabrieli or the invigorating suites performed from high towers by German village brass players. Several fascinating late eighteenth and early nineteenth century pieces have been unearthed, too, so that the ensemble's repertoire has grown to include a wide variety of styles and periods.

The appeal of a brass ensemble comprised of soloists and top orchestral musicians has been felt by the Quintet not only through their contact with vastly appreciative audiences and unparalleled critical acclaim but also by the response from music dealers and teachers. The Quintet has found enormous interest generated in its clinics or workshops for brass players and instructors, which frequently are held during the afternoon before an evening concert.

Recognition for the New York Brass Quintet has also come by means of a grant from the Martha Baird Rockefeller Foundation, the first time such an award has been presented to a group rather than an individual. With a European tour scheduled for the spring of 1963, the Quintet is certain to win further friends for the golden sounds of brass ensemble music.

ACT I (The Duel). In the guardroom of Count Di Luna's apartments in the palace of Aliaferia in Aragon, the men are on watch to apprehend a wandering troubadour, Manrico, who as a rival to the Count has been serenading the noble Leonora. The captain, Ferrando, keeps his men awake by telling the story of a gypsy who was burned to death for bewitching the Count's younger brother as a child. Her daughter, Azucena, avenged herself by abducting the boy and is thought to have burned him at the same stake where the mother perished, but the Count still searches for him.

In the palace garden, the Lady Leonora tells her companion Inez how, at a tournament, she first saw a strange knight in black armor, placed the laurel wreath on his brow and then beheld him no more until the quiet evening that he first came as a troubadour to serenade her. Although Inez confesses misgivings, her mistress declares her love for the stranger. No sooner have the women entered the palace than Count Di Luna appears. When Leonora, rushing out, betrays her preference for the troubadour, the Count in a jealous rage challenges him to a duel. She swoons as they hurry away.

ACT II (The Gypsy). As dawn breaks in the mountains of Biscay, the gypsies sing and set to work. Suddenly Azucena depicts the fiery scene of her mother's execution and calls for vengeance. As the band disperses, Manrico remains to question the old woman on his parentage; she lets slip that it was her own child whom she hurled into the flames by mistake, but insists that she has given Manrico a mother's love. When Azucena asks why he spared Di Luna, the troubadour replies that a mysterious power stayed his hand. He rushes off over her protests on learning that Leonora is to take the veil.

At the convent cloister where Leonora, believing Manrico dead, plans to retire, the Count prepares to intercept her. He cannot bear to live without her. At the last moment, Manrico intervenes; his forces overcome Di Luna's and he escapes with Leonora, who is overjoyed that her lover still lives.

ACT III (The Gypsy's Son). The Count has pitched his camp near the castle of Castellor, now held by Manrico, who has taken Leonora there. As Di Luna's soldiers sing of their eagerness for victory, Ferrando drags in Azucena, whom he has found lurking nearby. She describes her lonely life and tells them she is trying to locate her son; the Count torments her into admitting that it is Manrico and orders her to the stake.

Within the castle, Manrico comforts Leonora on the day of their wedding, but the ceremonies are rudely interrupted by Ruiz with news that Azucena has been captured.

ACT IV (The Torture). Ruiz brings Leonora to the prison of Aliaferia Palace, from which she hopes to rescue Manrico, who has been caught. Leonora decides to purchase his freedom by yielding to the Count, at whose astonished acquiescence she rejoices. Di Luna does not see her swallow poison.

In their dismal cell, Azucena and Manrico dream of returning to the happy freedom of the mountains. As the old woman falls asleep, Leonora enters to announce her lover's pardon but is denounced by Manrico when he learns the price. Gasping her innocence, she dies in his arms as the Count enters. In a fury he orders Manrico to the block. Azucena, roused by the troubadour's cry of farewell, staggers to the window just as he is executed. But the final triumph is hers. In wild exultation she cries that her mother is avenged: the Count has killed his own brother.

THE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE EXTENDS A WELCOME TO PARTICIPANTS

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONTEST PERSONNEL

FOR ALL: Be in the University Center at least 30 minutes prior to the opening of the contest.

ROOM CHAIRMEN:

1. You are in complete charge of the room.
2. Get copy of music and give it to the judge along with the judging sheet.
3. Announce name of auditioner, school, and composition before auditioner performs.
4. Check performance time before you begin with the office personnel.
5. STOP THOSE WHO RUN OVER. Do not allow excessive time for tuning. (This is included in the total time limit for each contestant.)
6. Check the criticism sheet to see that the judge has signed his name, circled the rating, and written in the rating.
7. Give the rating sheets to the office runner after each event is completed.
8. Protect the judge from interference while judging and the student from disturbance.
9. Help the student solve any conflicts, such as accompanists being assigned to two places.
10. Be sure to check that the judge has the proper criticism sheet before the auditioner begins.

DOORKEEPER:

1. While auditioner is performing, do not let anyone in or out of the room.
2. Collect auditioner's music at the door and give to the room chairman.
3. Keep order in the hallway as much as you can.
4. Work with the expediter in keeping things moving.

EXPEDITERS:

1. You are one of the most valuable workers, and your ability to "feed" performers to the audition room is the real secret of a successful contest. Have contestants warm up and ready to go on time. If scheduled contestant is late, get the next person ready. Do not allow the wrong person to use the warm up room unless asked to do so by the ones scheduled. (Each auditioner is due to have the room to himself for the period immediately preceding his appearance.)
2. If re-scheduling is necessary to keep the audition moving, see that this information is passed on to the room chairman.

INSTRUCTIONS TO PRINCIPALS, TEACHERS, AND PARTICIPANTS

This is the final copy of the Instrumental and Vocal Solos and Small Ensemble Events. Please inform students of their performance time.

Ratings will be posted on the bulletin board near the headquarters as soon as possible after an event is closed. NO RATINGS WILL BE GIVEN OUT OTHERWISE.

REGISTRATION is requested of all SENIOR DIVISION students. Please report to the Headquarters in the University Center as soon as you arrive. JUNIOR DIVISION students will not need to register.

TEACHERS: Please pick up the judges comment sheets before leaving the University Campus.

I. LUTE SONGS OF THE 16TH CENTURY

Non vuo pregare

Oratio Vecchi
Venice, 1590

I will not pray the one that does not hear me
For my fairest is depraved of love
She mocks love, alas, my heart...

Triste estava el rey David

Alonso Mudarra
Seville, 1546

Sad was King David,
Sad, and in a great suffering
When he knew the death of Absalom.

Amante sdegnate

Giovanni Stefani
Venice, 1621

I do no more consume myself,
I no more burn as I did burn
For your love,
You fickle, thankless one...

Perdida tenyo la color

Don Luis Milan
Valencia, 1536

I have lost my colors
For the love of an ungrateful lady...

Tant que vivray

Anonymous, publ.
Paris, 1529

While I have youth and vigor
I will serve the great god Love
In words and deed, in song and harmony...

Mein Gmüt ist mir verwirret*

Hans Leo Hassler
Jena, 1603

My soul is bewildered,
A tender maiden causes this.
I am completely and wholly bewildered,
My heart is full of grief.

Wilt thou, unkind, thus reave me

John Dowland
London, 1605

*Hassler's melody was later used for the Lutheran chorale, "O, Thou with hate surrounded."

Als ick u vinde

Emmanuel Adriaenssen
Antwerp, 1584

When I see you again
With your distaff and your spinning wheel,
With your beautiful hands and your red cheeks,
Then I know that I am your captive.

II. LUTE DANCES OF THE RENAISSANCE

Italian Saltarelli
El Maton
La Sasinata
El Giorgio

Joan Maria de Crema

IV. FRENCH COURT SONGS AND BALLETS

Quel espoir de guerir Pierre Guerdon
Paris, 1608-1618

What hope of recovery
May I have, without dieing
Of an amorous torment...

Ce n'est point pour t'estrenner Adrian Leroy
Paris, 1571

It is not to give you a present
That I send you this collar.
Since I lost the game,
Do I not have to pay for it?...

Un jour que ma rebelle Gabriel Bataille
Paris, 1608-1618

One day, as my rebel ran away,
I said: Cruel, please do stay,
O...I see you, I catch you,
I see you...I hold you...

Heureux qui se peut plaindre Pierre Guerdon
Paris, 1608-1618

Happy the one
Who may freely complain
And tell his torment
Without fear...

Ennuits, désespoirs et douleurs Antoine Boesset
Paris, 1643

Sorrow, despair and grief
I give myself up to you...
The adorable Amarante will leave us,
And the heaven that commands it
Does not hear my voice...

Puis qu'en notre tendre jeunesse Gabriel Bataille
Paris, 1608-1618

Since in our tender youth
Love makes us a ceaseless war
And torments us night and day,
Let us catch him...

V. A 17TH CENTURY PASSACAGLIA FOR LUTE

A Discretion

Le Sage de Richée
1695

VI. ITALIAN SONGS FROM THE 14TH TO THE 17TH CENTURY

Tosto che l'alba

Ghirardello da Firenze
Florence, c. 1400

As soon as the dawn of the fair day appears,
The hunters awaken.
"Arise, arise, for it is now time.
Call out the dogs:
'Here, here, Viola here, Primera here...'"

Io non compro più speranza

Marchetto Cara
Venice, 1509

I do no more buy hope,
For it is a false merchandise
That gives only waiting
Which does not enrich me...
Once, I bought it expensive...
Today I sell it very cheap...

Che fai, Dori, che pensi

Oratio Vecchi
Venice, 1590

What are you doing, Dori,
What do you think,
Shall I nevermore be in peace?
Peace and joy you shall have...
O tell me when...

Amarilli, mia bella

Giulio Caccini
London, 1610

Amarilli, my beauty,
You do not believe,
Sweet desire of my heart,
That you are my love.
Believe it though
And if doubts do assault you,
Take my arrow, open my breast
And you will read in my heart,
Amarilli is my love.

Lamento d'Arianna

Claudio Monteverdi
Mantua, 1608

Let me die.
What could comfort me in such a hard destiny
In such great pain, let me die...

O Teseo, if thou but knew how troubled is the poor Arianna
Perhaps repenting, thou wouldst turn thy prow anew
Towards this bank...
Atene prepares beautiful feasts for you
And I remain here, promised to wild beasts
On these solitary sands...

Where is the faith that thou hadst sworn me?
Are these the scepters and crowns?
Wilt thou let die, weeping in vain
She to whom thou lowest glory and life?

Alas, he does not answer...
O clouds, O tempests, O winds drown him in the waves
And may his body fill the deep abysses.
O unfortunate one, what have I asked?
I did not say these cruel words,
My trouble, my tongue has said them
But not my heart.

The fire of love does not fade out,
O death, destroy the infamous flames,
See how I suffer from my love, my faith
And another's deceit...
So ends who loves too much and too much believes.

The Seven Last Words

By

JOSEPH HAYDN

FIRST WORD

"Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do"

Lamb of God! Surely Thou hast borne our sorrows: With Thy stripes we are healed. Lamb of God! Thou blessest them that persecute Thee, And prayest for them who despitefully use Thee. Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord, I will repay. A lamb before her shearers is dumb, So Thou openest not Thy mouth. Thou art cut off from the land of the living; For our transgressions art Thou smitten. Thou art oppressed; Thou art afflicted; But Thou didst no violence, nor was deceit in Thy mouth. Thou didst no evil. Thou, when reviled, reviledst not again; Thou, suffering, threatenedst not. Thou bearest our sins in Thy body on the tree. Thou art not overcome of evil; but Thou overcomest evil with good. Reviled, Thou blessest, Defamed, entreatest, O Lamb of God!

SECOND WORD

"Verily I say unto thee, this day shalt thou be with Me in Paradise"

Lord, have mercy on me after Thy great goodness; I acknowledge my transgressions, and my sin is ever before me. Cast me not away from Thy presence and take not Thy Holy Spirit from me. Wash me thoroughly from my wickedness, and cleanse me from my sin. Hide Thy face from my sins. Against Thee only have I sinned, and done this evil in Thy sight. My sin is ever before me; I acknowledge my transgression. Thou shalt purge me, and I shall be clean. Thou shalt wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow. Thou shalt make me hear of joy and gladness, That the bone which Thou hast broken may rejoice.

THIRD WORD

"Woman, behold thy Son. Son, behold thy mother"

(There followed Him a great company of people, and of women which also bewailed and lamented Him. But Jesus said:) "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for Me, but weep for yourselves and for your children." Turn ye unto Me, saith the Lord, with all your hearts, And with fasting and with weeping, and with mourning. And rend your hearts, and not your garments, And turn unto the Lord your God; For He is gracious and merciful; Slow to anger and of great kindness; And repenteth Him of the evil.

FOURTH WORD

"Eli, Eli, lama sabacthani?"

O my God, look upon me, why hast Thou forsaken me? Why art Thou so far from my health, and the words of my complaint? Go not from me All they that see me laugh me to scorn. Hide not Thou Thy face from me. Thou hast been my succour. Leave me not. Forsake me not. Turn Thee unto me; for I am desolate and in misery. My hope hath been in Thee, O Lord: Lord, in Thee have I trusted; I have said, Thou art my God.

FIFTH WORD

"It is finished"

He came down from Heaven, not to do His own will, but the will of Him that sent Him. "Sacrifice and offering Thou wouldest not, but a body hast Thou prepared Me; In burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin Thou hast had no pleasure. Then said I, lo, I come to do Thy will, O God. In the volume of the book it is written of Me, that I should fulfill Thy will, O God. I am content to do it; Yea Thy law is within My heart. Holy Father, righteous Father, I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do; And now I come to Thee."

SIXTH WORD

"It thirst"

That the Scripture might be fulfilled, Jesus saith, "I thirst." He treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God. Thy rebuke hath broken His heart. He is full of heaviness. He looked for some to have pity on Him, but there was no man, neither found He any to comfort Him. They gave Him gall to eat. And when He was thirsty they gave Him vinegar to drink.

SEVENTH WORD

"Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit"

Into Thy hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit. Hereby perceive we the love of God, that He laid down His life for us. He tasted death for every man. He poured out His soul unto death. He made intercession for the transgressors. He died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with Him. Thou hast redeemed us, O Lord, Thou God of truth.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONTEST PERSONNEL

The warm-up practice rooms are reserved for the period before your performance. Be sure to check with the door-keeper before going to your practice room.

Teachers may obtain the judges' comment sheets as soon as the ratings are posted.

Ratings will be posted on the bulletin board in the first floor hall. No ratings will be given over the phone or otherwise than through the bulletin board.

DEFINITIONS OF JUDGING RATINGS FOR STATE PIANO FESTIVAL AS SUGGESTED BY THE STATE PIANO FESTIVAL COMMISSION

- | | | |
|-----|----------------|--|
| I | SUPERIOR | Superior talent, preparation, and accomplishment; performance that arrests attention immediately; would apply, perhaps, to not more than 5% of entrants, perhaps less. |
| II | EXCELLENT | Very good. No deficiencies. Excellent in every area. Would probably apply to about 25% of the usual body of entrants. |
| III | GOOD | Admirable in musical sensitiveness and in training, but showing some areas of deficiency. |
| IV | UNSATISFACTORY | Either native ability or training and practice habits are such that the student is unable to recreate the music accurately and musically. |

Season 1962-1963

ANNA MOFFO

SOPRANO

Metropolitan Opera Association

JAMES SHOMATE at the Piano

IN THE SHORT SPAN of five years glamorous Anna Moffo has been catapulted into the ranks of the world's foremost prima donnas. This Pennsylvania-born soprano has enjoyed triumphs in the leading operatic centers of the world: La Scala, Milan; the Rome Opera; La Fenice, Venice; San Carlo, Naples; the Vienna State Opera; Covent Garden, London; the Teatro Colon, Buenos Aires; and at the Festivals of Salzburg and Aix-en-Provence as well as the Metropolitan Opera, the Chicago Lyric, and the San Francisco Opera.

Wherever she has appeared her successes have been phenomenal. Following her "Lucia" at the Metropolitan this past season, the United Press reported on the international wires: "At the end of the first aria of the Mad-Scene, after Anna Moffo had sung her first High E-Flat, the Christmas night audience stood for seven minutes cheering. Miss Moffo was so surprised by the ovation that she did not know what to do. She fidgeted momentarily. At the conclusion of the second aria of this scene, one of the most demanding in all opera, Miss Moffo received 15 solo curtain calls." Of her "Traviata", which in-

PROGRAM

1. Se Florindo e fedele

Alessandro Scarlatti

My heart I can defend from luring smiles; sighs, tears and prayers cannot move me; but if Florindo prove faithful; surely I shall love him.

Caldo sangue
(Aria from Il Sedecia)

Alessandro Scarlatti

Hot blood that flows over my breast, give testimony of my love and devotion to my father as I die. May I live once more as you flow through the arm of my avenger.

Alleluja, from the Motet,
"Exsultate, Jubilate"

W. A. Mozart

2. Lerchengesang

Johannes Brahms

Ethereal, far-off voices of skylarks bestowing heavenly greetings, how sweetly your melodies stir my breast. Quiet, I close my eyes, and memories drift by on the breath of spring.

Der Tod das ist die kühle Nacht Johannes Brahms

Death is the cooling night, and life the sultry day. I rest where the willows weep . . . a nightingale is singing of love's delight; I hear it, even in my dreams.

Morgen (Tomorrow)

Richard Strauss

Tomorrow the sun will shine again, it will unite us, happy ones, once more in the midst of this sun-breathing earth. To the far, blue-waved strand we shall descend, and upon us will sink the calm silence of bliss.

Ständchen (Serenade)

Richard Strauss

Arise, but softly my child, lest envious sleepers awaken. With steps light as an elf's slip out into the moonlit night, to the garden where I am waiting. Sit here in a mysterious twilight under the lindens. The nightingale above shall dream of our kisses and the rose shall blush when it wakes.

3. Aria: Una voce poco fa, from "The Barber of Seville"

Giocchino Rossini

Ever since its composition, this aria has been regarded as a prime example of the bel canto tour-de-force singing, with its demanding range and brilliant ornamentation. In it Rosina tells gaily what a sweet and loving person she is if she has her own way, and how she can turn into a veritable serpent if she is opposed.

INTERMISSION

4. Ce doux petit visage

Francis Poulenc

Only this sweet little face, only this sweet little bird on the distant jetty, at winter's end . . . only youth flying from life.

C.

Francis Poulenc

"I too have crossed the bridges of Cé where it all began," writes Louis Aragon, poet of the French Resistance. He recalls France's glory in the days of chivalry, then shifts to the contemporary scene of her defeat in 1940, "Oh my France, my forsaken one! I too have crossed the bridges of Cé."

Green, from "Ariettes oubliées" Claude Debussy

Here are fruit, flowers, leaves, and branches, and here is my heart which beats only for you. Do not rend it with your white hands but let this humble present find favor in your eyes.

Fantoches, from "Fêtes galantes" Claude Debussy

Scaramouche and Pulcinella flit like two evil shapes in the moonlight. The good doctor Bolognais gathers simples among the withered grasses, while his pretty little daughter steals half clad to meet her Spanish lover. A nightingale in the tree top sings of passion and pain.

5. Nocturne

6. Scene and Aria, from "La Traviata"

Ah, fors è lui
Sempre libera

Giuseppe Verdi

The younger Dumas' first play — The Lady of the Camellias — caused a sensation when it was produced in 1852. It was the first time that the story of a Parisian demi-mondaine had been presented without disguise and the public was frankly shocked. Verdi's La Traviata, whose libretto is based upon the play, was considered even more objectionable, because more insidious.

This scene is from Act I. The gay party at the home of Violetta is over and Alfred has left with the other guests, after making her an avowal of love. Violetta muses on the unfamiliar joy of truly loving and being loved but puts the thought away as folly. For her, there is no turning back; she must tread the round of pleasure cidentally won her 22 curtain calls when she made her Met debut three seasons ago, the NY Times said this year "Her performance was a triumph of characterization and dramatic singing." The NY Herald Tribune said of her performance of the three soprano heroines in "Tales of Hoffman": "The way she alights on a phrase is pure magic." Even publications which deal with musical personalities only sporadically, have printed stories about La Moffo. Life Magazine headlined a recent 5 page story on her with "A Boffo soprano named Moffo" and then went on to say "She is the opera world's newest adornment and box-office hit." The Saturday Evening Post called her "A Grand Soprano", while Horizon Magazine named her one of the three singers "whose talents constitute an emergent golden age of song." Look Magazine spoke of her in the following terms: "That a girl who looks so lovely and acts so expertly should sing so ravishingly seems unfair to the soprano species. Moffo is grand opera's brightest newcomer." Time Magazine had this to say about her voice: "Throughout, the radiant, controlled voice lent a superb air of emotional conviction to the great arias and ensembles."

Moffo went to Italy on a Fulbright scholarship. Her first engagement came four months after she had arrived: a big-time Italian TV production of "Madame Butterfly." Those who auditioned her were immediately impressed with what they heard—and what they saw! (Even the dignified New York Times has called her "one of the most beautiful women ever to grace the stage of an opera house"). Everyone was delighted with their new discovery with the exception of the director who did everything to prevent her appearance. Unable to find another soprano on short notice, he reluctantly accepted her for the role. Moffo's debut as Butterfly in that TV production rocketed her to fame overnight, and resulted in her marriage to the brilliant young director Mario Lanfranchi who originally thought her unsuitable for the role.

Following that TV debut five years ago, Anna Moffo was deluged with offers from all over the world, and since then she has sung 52 different leading roles (she has learned more than 70), has made numerous recordings for Angel and RCA Victor, and has also made a movie, the multi-million dollar production called "Napoleon at Austerlitz" in which she plays a straight dramatic acting role.

The 1962-63 season is another brilliant one in the Moffo career. At the Metropolitan she sings Melisande in special performance of "Pelleas et Melisande" commemorating the centennial of Debussy's birth. Other roles there are "Traviata", Liu in "Turandot" and Rosina in "The Barber of Seville". She makes two national concert tours throughout the United States, with television occupying the remainder of her time here (Telephone Hour, Voice of Firestone, Ed Sullivan Show, etc.). She continues to commute across the Atlantic for engagements with Europe's foremost opera houses in such rarely heard operas as "I Puritani", "Lucrezia Borgia", "La Fille du Regiment", in addition to the more standard repertoire of "Manon", "Traviata" and "Lucia". And among several new Moffo albums RCA-Victor is releasing a complete "La Boheme" with her this season.

This program by The Louisville String Quartet is made possible by an appropriation of the 1962 session of the Kentucky General Assembly administered by the Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education in cooperation with the State Department of Education and the State Department of Commerce.

The proceeds from this concert will go to the "Friends for Strings," an organization devoted to furthering the cause of strings in this community. They also sponsor an annual summer music camp for young orchestra players. Any donations or contributions anyone wishes to make to this organization may be sent to Dr. Rockwell Chin, Treasurer, Box 2280, Berea College.

Program Notes For The Liederkries

- IN DER FREMDE (Abroad) From my homeland these clouds come to me. My mother and father died long ago. No one knows me here. I am enveloped in loneliness.
- INTERMEZZO Your wonderful reflection lives deep in my heart and forever looks out at me.
- WALDESGESPRACH (Woodland Conversation) "It is late and cold. Why do you ride alone in the woods? Lovely bride, I'll lead you home."
"Man's deceit and art are great and sorrow has broken my heart. The woodland horn sounds. Flee, you know not who I am!"
"So wondrous fair are horse and maid. You are the witch, the Loreley."
"You know me well. Nevermore will you leave these woods."
- DIE STILLE (The Silence) No one knows why I am feeling so fine. Neither the snow nor the starlight is so silent and peaceful as my thoughts and desires.
- MONDNACHT (Moonlight) It was as though heaven in silence kissed the earth. The wind blew in the meadow, the wheat billowed gently, the woods rustled softly, the night was starry and clear. My soul spread its wings and flew through the still land.
- SCHONE FREMDE (Beautiful Foreign Land) What riddle are you asking me, oh fantastic night? The stars are glowing and from a distance there comes a voice that promises a future of delight!
- AUF EINER BURG (at a Castle) Fast asleep the ancient knight is waiting. Over him storm and rain sweep. With beard and hair turned to stone he has sat for hundreds of years in seclusion. Outside all is quiet, only the forest birds sing in the empty archway. A wedding party journeys up the Rhine and musicians play for the lovely bride who weeps.
- IN DER FREMDE (Abroad) I hear the brook murmuring, yet I know not where I am. The nightingales sing as if to say something from the beautiful old times. The moonlight glimmers and makes me believe I see a castle in the distance. And there in the garden my loved one, who has been dead for such a long time, waits for me.
- WEHMUT (Sadness) I often sing as if I were happy, but secret tears spring up that set my heart free. The nightingale sings in the springtime air. There all hearts are joyful and no one understands the sadness within the song.
- ZWIELICHT (Twilight) Twilight spread its wings, the trees are moving menacingly. What can this uneasiness mean? If you're a friend, don't trust him at this hour. Many borrow the cover of darkness. Take care, watch and wonder.
- IM WALDE (In the Wood) A wedding party descended the hill, a bird sang gaily. Then knights followed, their horns sounding shrilly. Before I could think all was gone. The night enveloped the region. I shuddered to the depths of my being.
- FRUHLINGSNACHT (Spring Night) Spring has come. Everything is beginning to bloom. I would like to cry in exultation, for it seems that all this cannot be. Moon, stars, and nightingale say, "She is yours!"

For these our college days.
Thy honor true we all defend,
'Tis known we love thee well.
Our thoughts for years to come will be
Of thee, our U. of L.

Now our thoughts go back to you,
Our Alma Mater dear,
To days gone by with friends we loved
Now scattered far and near.
On shaded walks and campus green,
Your sons and daughters true,
With voices raised and spirits high,
Sing loud their praise to you.

PRELUDE IN C MINOR, BWV 546 Johann Sebastian Bach

CANTATA 47, "He Who Self Exalteth,".. Johann Sebastian Bach
For Oboes 1,2, Strings, Organ obbligato, Continuo, Solo SB, and Chorus, written for the 17th Sunday after Trinity.

CHORUS: "He who self exalteth, he shall be made low and humble, and he who shall abase himself shall be exalteth ever." Luke 14:11

ARIA, Soprano: "Ye who would like Christ be holy, like Him be ye meek and lowly, meekness cometh from the Lord.
Pride is Satan's base reward; God will foster them who hate it, fight it, and abate it."

RECITATIVE, Bass: "Mankind is clay, dust, earth, and ashes; yet sometimes all the arrogance that marks the Devil's brood will totally bewitch him. Lo, Jesus, God's own Son, He who hath all created, became for us a humble, lowly mortal, endured disgrace and scorn while Thou, a crawling worm, so proud and shameless, would yet profess to be a Christian! Go! Shame on Thee! Thou Imp of Insolence! Repent and follow Jesus hence! Be right with God, of meek and humble bearing, that thou at last His glory may be sharing!"

ARIA, Bass: "Jesus, take my heart and mould it under Thine Almighty Hand, so that Hell may never hold it there with Satan's fiendish band. Make me, like Thee, long enduring, pride, vain-glory all abjuring. Grant Thou a lowly mien to me, that I may be dear to Thee."

CHORALE: "All glories of earth gladly I forego, if only on me Thou wilt bestow forever that reward, the guerdon of Thy bitter woe. This ask I Thee; my God and Lord."

OFFERTORY: "All Glories of Earth Gladly I Forego"

American National Anthem

O say! can you see,
by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd
at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
thro' the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd,
were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets red glare,
the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof thro' the night that our flag was still there.
O say, does that Star-spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

ACT I. A public square in Seville. The orchestra sets the scene at once with the brazen, brilliant march of the Toreadors, followed later by the anguished phrases that tell of Don José's infatuation for Carmen. Then the curtain is up and we are in a square in Seville. Presently the midday bell sounds and the girls enter from the cigarette factory. As the voices fade into silence, Carmen appears. The orchestra repeats the phrases of José's infatuation, but now they are quick, agile, impudent. It is at once obvious that Carmen is the dominating personality of the opera: a gipsy, handsome, shameless, irresistible, created to make men mad. "She wore a red skirt, very short," says Merimée, who wrote the novel on which the libretto is based, "which exposed to view her white silk stockings." The dragoons eagerly cluster round her and she taunts them with an arrogant song in praise of love. Don José, a corporal of dragoons, sits by, mending the chain of his sword. Carmen accosts him, but he will have nothing to do with her. She flings him a blood-red flower and runs away. He looks after her, and commits his first act of folly: slowly he picks up the flower and puts it in his tunic. He has signed his death warrant. Now enters Micaela, his betrothed. She comes from his mother, bringing him a letter, a purse, and a kiss; and they sing a tender little duet which perfectly expresses the innocent freshness of their love. After Micaela has gone there is an uproar from the the cigarette factory. It is a fight, they say. And Carmen is dragged into the square, panting and dishevelled. She has stabbed another girl in a quarrel. She is arrested, and José is told to escort her to the prison. When they are left alone, she coolly and deliberately begins to seduce him. Blinded by sudden infatuation, he allows her to escape (he will meet her later at the tavern) and is arrested in her place.

ACT II. The tavern. Carmen is dancing and singing amid a crowd of gipsies, smugglers, and officers. Escamillo swaggers in on his way to a bull-fight, calls for a cup of wine and pledges the company in the famous Toreador's Song. Like every other man who meets her eye, he is dazzled by Carmen's sex-appeal, and a spark falls which is to kindle to a tragic blaze later in the story. The smugglers want Carmen to help them in their latest enterprise. But no; Carmen has 'fallen in love again': she is waiting for José, who has just been released from prison. Together with her friends, Mercedes and Frasquita, the smugglers try to persuade her—in one of the deftest and most bewitching numbers in the whole opera. But at that moment Carmen hears José singing merrily as he nears the tavern, and she hustles them out. José bursts into the room and passionately declares his love. Carmen proceeds to fascinate him with her dancing. He hears the retreat sounding and knows he should return to barracks, but, stung by Carmen's sadistic mockery, he shuts his ears to it, and falling on his knees, he pours out his heart in one of the most poignant love songs ever written. José is lost. Zuniga, his captain (who also is in love with Carmen), returns and orders him off. He refuses to go, and they fight, but are eventually torn apart by the smugglers. Disgraced and ruined, José throws in his lot with them. Henceforth he has no other thought but Carmen.

ACT III. The smuggler's camp. The curtain rises on the smuggler's camp in a rocky mountain gorge. Mercedes and Frasquita begin to tell their fortunes by cards. Carmen takes a hand and turns up the Ace of Spades. It is death—first for her, then for her lover. But she is a gipsy—and a fatalist. She merely shrugs her shoulders and leaps gaily to her feet to join the smugglers, who are making for the frontier, leaving José on guard on a nearby rock. When the stage is empty, Micaela appears. She is seeking José with a message from his dying mother. The desolate scene fills her with fear and she prays for courage. She catches sight of José on the rock. He suddenly takes aim and fires; she is overcome with panic and hides in a cave. It is Escamillo José has fired at, thinking him a spy. He now comes forward to greet him. Escamillo laughingly confesses that he has fallen in love with Carmen and has come to seek her. Maddened by jealousy, José challenges him and they begin to fight with daggers. The crowd returns just in time to separate them, and with an ironical speech of thanks the Toreador departs, having invited them to his next bull-fight at Seville. Micaela persuades José to go with her to his dying mother. "Yes, go back to your mother," sneers Carmen, now thoroughly weary of her boy lover; "you'll never have the pluck to make a smuggler." José turns to go, but he swears that they will meet again. She is his, and she shall never escape him.

ACT IV. Outside the bull-ring. He keeps his word. We are at the gate of the Plaza de Toros. The warriors march in to the ringing of bells and the frenzied acclamations of the people, who swarm in after them. Escamillo pauses to take a tender leave of Carmen. "If you love me, Carmen, you will be proud of me today." Carmen is about to follow the crowd, but a hand is laid on her arm, and beside her, like a figure of doom, stands José—white-faced, motionless, terrible. Carmen knows she is looking into the face of death. But she does not shrink. He makes one last despairing appeal: will she go with him and begin life afresh? For an answer she hurls her ring at him and makes a blind rush for the gateway—a rush that ends her life on the point of his dagger, as a wild shout from within proclaims the victory of her new lover.

ABOUT THE ARTISTS

TATIANA TROYANOS, currently a member of the New York City Opera Company where she appears each season, began her musical studies at the Brooklyn Music School. In 1957 Miss Troyanos entered the Juilliard School of Music where she was granted a scholarship every year until 1960 when she was awarded the Juilliard Alumni Scholarship. She has sung with numerous opera companies in the New York area and was recently awarded a grant by the Rockefeller Foundation and was Mezzo soloist at that Inaugural Concert of the Hopkins Center in Hanover, New Hampshire.

WILLIAM GREENE, a member of the Turnau Opera Company, recently returned to the United States after three years study at the National Theatre, Mannheim, Germany. He won the Metropolitan District Auditions in Atlanta, Georgia and was leading tenor with the Miami Opera Guild. He has sung with the New York City Opera, Cantata Singers of New York and was most recently soloist in a performance of Britten's "Rape of Lucretia" at Lincoln Center.

DONALD HENRICKSON, Assistant Professor of Music at Eastern Kentucky State College, has sung with the Boston Symphony under Charles Munch and sang the role of the "Count" in the Marriage of Figaro directed by the late Sir Thomas Beecham. In the world stage premiere of Lucas Foss's Griffelkin, Mr. Henrickson played the role of the "Shop-keeper." Last summer he appeared in the role of "Christy" in 70 performances of The Stephen Foster Story in Bardstown.

DIANA YEAMAN, a resident of Louisville, was a member of the University of Southern California Opera Theatre directed by Dr. Walter Ducloux. She has sung in such operas as Falstaff, L'Heure Espagnol, Simon Boccanegra, Die Meistersinger and Wozzeck. Locally, Mrs. Yeaman is well known for her appearances with the Wandering Minstrels in performances of Gilbert & Sullivan's The Sorcerer and Pirates of Penzance.

TONI BOOKER is a resident of Louisville and is an instructor of voice at the University of Louisville School of Music. Her most recent appearance with the K.O.A. was in last year's production of Il Trovatore in which she sang the role of Azucena.

CLARENCE SMITH is a regular member of the K.O.A. cast and has appeared in several productions. Last year he sang in Madame Butterfly and Il Trovatore. His main interest in Louisville is his occupation, one which is quite rare in the United States—he is business manager of the Belle of Louisville.

BONNIE BOUNNELL attended Indiana University where she majored in voice under Mme. Manski. A member of the K.O.A. since 1956, she has sung such operas as Così Fan Tutte and La Bohème. In addition she is a soloist with the choir of Calvin Presbyterian Church and sings in the K.O.A. programs in the public schools.

DON PETERSEN, a former scholarship student at the University of Louisville and finalist in the 1960 Chicago Metropolitan Opera Auditions has sung in several K.O.A. productions, most recently that of Carl Orff's "The King and the Wise Woman."

JOHN CARPENTER is a scholarship student of Fletcher Smith at the University of Louisville School of Music. He is also a member of the Motet Singers and the University Choir.

JACK WIGGINTON, a resident of Louisville has sung in K.O.A. productions of Rigoletto, Faust, and Orpheus. He is a member of the Catholic Theatre Guild which gave him the Best Actor Award in 1960, the Clarksville Little Theatre and the Carriage House Players.

FERNANDO CORENA

LEADING BASSO, Metropolitan Opera Association

STANLEY SONNTAG at the Piano

GENERALLY acknowledged to be a basso-buffo without equal in the world today, Fernando Corena is a leading artist of the Metropolitan and Chicago Lyric Operas and of La Scala and other leading theaters abroad.

Corena made his debut at the Metropolitan as the wily Leporello in "Don Giovanni" in 1954. He quickly followed up that success with an even more outstanding portrayal of Dr. Bartolo in "The Barber of Seville." Since then have come such memorable characterizations as the title roles of "Gianni Schicchi" and "Don Pasquale" and Dr. Dulcamara in "L'Elisir d'Amore." In all of them he has won unstinted praise, best summed up by the words of one New York critic:

PROGRAM

1. Bist du bei mir

Johann Sebastian Bach

If thou be near, go I with gladness to Death and to eternal Peace. Ah, how content were thou my ending, if thy dear hands were laid upon me and gently closed my faithful eyes.

Du armes kleines Bälein

Adolfo Hasse

You will come back before long, poor little brook; from the dusty bed twixt rocks, you will whisper. I will toss you in play, stir up the waves twixt your banks, that to sea you may go.

Air de Caron — Il faut passer tôt ou tard, from "Alceste"

Jean Baptiste Lully

In the dismal regions where the river Acheron flows, Charon, the ferryman of the dead, plies his gloomy trade:

"Be it soon or late, all must board my boat. Youth and age, king and shepherd, I receive all of you on equal terms."

Un bacio di mano (K. 541)

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

"Un bacio di mano" was designed for insertion in the dramma giocoso "Le Gelosie Fortunate." Sparkling with wit, the aria gives advice to the rather stupid lover, to study the ways of the world and of love; to learn, with a young girl he wishes to marry, to close his eyes, his ears, his mouth, if he does not wish to seem to be the king of fools.

2. Donzelle fuggite

Francesco Cavalli

O hasten, Maidens, from beauty to flee! If a piercing glance strikes your heart, beware of the dart, it is sorrow-laden. Love snares but to chasten and deceive.

Tre giorni

Giovanni Battista Pergolesi

This beautiful old Italian melody, in minor key, is set to words which express the lament of a lover over his "sleeping" sweetheart, and it is evident that her sleep is the sleep of death. He calls upon various musical instruments to awaken her, but to no avail.

Danza, danza fanciulla

Francesco Durante

The singer addresses a maiden who is bidden to dance to the lilt of the song. The murmuring waters and the sighing breezes join in the invitation. The eager feet respond and tirelessly keep time to the rhythm as the song goes on and on.

3. Le Pas d'armes du Roi Jean

Camille Saint-Saëns

"Le Pas d'armes du Roi Jean," a fine old-fashioned ballad from the pen of Victor Hugo, consists of a conversation between two knightly travelers to the tournament in Paris. They arrive on the field as the tournament begins: A terrific clatter and clash of swords, choking clouds of dust, flashing colors, but suddenly a hush falls—a little page has been mortally stricken. The priest administers last rites while lovely ladies and proud men stand by weeping. The tournament finished, the two knights return to their exile in the hills, their conversation gradually dying away in the distance.

Démons et merveilles, from the film "Les Visiteurs du Soir"

Maurice Thiriet

Demons and wonders, winds and tides, the sea has moved far from the shore, and you, like sea kelp sweetly caressed by the wind, move as in a dream. But in your eyes, half-open, rest two

Couplets bachiques

Francis Poulenc

I am rough and ready all day, grave and frolicsome by turns. When I see a bottle without wine, I am grave; if it is full, I am jolly. When I'm with my wife, I am sober all the time. If the pretty girls take me on, I am jolly and gay. Ah! lovely waitress, pour me some wine. Let me make merry — Tra, la, la!

INTERMISSION

Operatic Arias:

Non più andrai, from
"Marriage of Figaro"

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart

In this gaily rhythmical aria, Figaro chides Cherubino, the page of the Castle, who has just been ordered by the Count to join his regiment. He teases the boy, who has always been the "darling of the ladies," about having to give up his beautiful clothes of silks and satins for his army uniform and frightens him about the horrors of war and soldiering.

Il lacerato spirito,
from "Simon Boccanegra"

Giuseppe Verdi

Torn with grief and suffering at the loss of his child, Fiesco leaves the Church of San Lorenzo and turns toward the palace of the Fieschi. A statue of the Virgin Mary is set in a niche by the side of the Palace. Crazy by his great sorrow, Fiesco bitterly upbraids the Virgin for not protecting his child, but realizing the full extent of his blasphemy, he begs her forgiveness, and asks her to pray for him.

Miei rampolli femminini,
from "La Cenerentola"

Giacomo Rossini

"La Cenerentola" is none other than the familiar story of Cinderella. In this aria her step-father chides his own two daughters for interrupting him in the midst of a magnificent dream, in which he was a very beautiful donkey, one of great dignity. Then suddenly hundreds of feathers sprang from his shoulders and he took flight. He heard the pealing of bells from the bell-tower. His interpretation of the dream is that the bells meant joy, the feathers that he would rise from his plebeian station, and the donkey symbolized him as an ancestor. He predicts one of his daughters will be Queen and he the grandfather of a dozen Kings.

Vision fugitive, from "Hérodiade" Jules Massenet

Massenet's opera, Hérodiade, is a variant of the Salome story. The mighty Herod, obsessed by his love for Salome, drinks a magic potion to gain a fleeting vision of his beloved.—"Vision fair, 'tis you alone whom I fain would see. My soul I would surrender for your love."

Ten Little Flies

Arturo Buzzi-Peccia

Old Mother Hubbard

Victor Hely-Hutchinson

The Deaf Old Woman

Katherine K. Davis

"Corena is a comedian of the first order." So pre-eminent is he in his particular sphere that CBS's Camera Three recently devoted a program to him entitled "The Comic Bass."

Corena's arrival at the Metropolitan was preceded by a series of stunning impersonations on the stages of Europe's great lyric theaters. Long a regular member of La Scala, he has also appeared with the opera companies of Trieste, Verona, Naples, Rome, Lisbon, Barcelona, Zurich, Brussels and London.

Since his success in the United States, his reputation has continued to grow abroad. At the Edinburgh Festival in 1955 he portrayed the great title role of Verdi's "Falstaff." "One has never met before, and can hardly hope to meet again, quite so all-round a Falstaff," exclaimed one British critic; "he is a superb comic actor." Similar acclaim greeted his Falstaff in Israel in 1959 and in 1961 in Brussels in a production staged by Franco Zeffirelli. The artist had the honor of appearing at the celebrated Salzburg Festival in 1956, and he has since been featured at the Holland Festival. He conquered a new continent with operatic performances at the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires in the summer of 1958 and later that fall in Mexico City.

A prominent star in the catalog of London Records, Corena may be heard in complete recordings of fourteen different operas as well as albums of opera highlights. His recording of Cimarosa's "Il Maestro di Cappella" was recently awarded the Grand Prix du Disque.

Fernando Corena was born in Geneva, Switzerland, to a Turkish father and an Italian mother. He began vocal study while a student at the University of Fribourg but received most of his training in Milan under Enrico Romano. After a promising debut in Trieste in 1947, he was soon much in demand by opera houses throughout Europe and within a few years arrived at that mecca of all opera singers—La Scala—to be followed only a few years later by the Metropolitan. He has remained a stellar attraction at both houses ever since.

PROGRAM NOTES

BY CAROL DENNES

Antonio Vivaldi (1675-1741) was an Italian priest who taught violin at the Pieta, a girls' school in Venice. Vivaldi wrote his sacred music to be performed by the group that he had at hand—the singers and instrumentalists at the Pieta. Although famous and fêted during his lifetime, Vivaldi's name and music soon after his death passed into a state of neglect that seemed final. Not until admirers of Bach found the manuscript of Vivaldi's Concerto for Organ did the world realize that here was another composer of great worth. The "Ossecencis" Magnificat performed today was not discovered until 1960. Hidden in the archives of the Prague National Museum, it originally had been sent by Vivaldi to Bohemian friends at the Osek Monastery (hence the identifying subtitle) near Prague.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. Chorus : Magnificat anima mea Dominum. | My soul doth magnify the Lord. |
| 2. Soprano II : Et exultavit spiritus meus in Deo salutari meo.
Contralto : Quia respexit humilitatem ancillae suae; ecce enim ex hoc beatam me dicent omnes generationes.
Soprano I : Quia fecit mihi magna, qui potens est, et sanctum nomen ejus. | And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.
For he hath regarded the lowliness of his handmaiden; for behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed.
For he that is mighty hath magnified me, and holy is his name. |
| 3. Chorus : Et misericordia progenie in progenies timentibus eum. | And his mercy is on them that fear him from generation to generation. |
| 4. Chorus : Fecit potentiam in brachio suo, dispersit superbos mente cordis sui.

Altos : Deposuit potentes de sede, et exaltavit humiles. | He hath showed strength with his arm; He hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.
He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and hath exalted the humble and meek. |
| 5. Soprano Duo : Esurientes implevit bonis et dimisit inanes. | He hath filled the empty with good things, and the rich he hath sent empty away. |
| 6. Chorus : Suscepit Israel puerum suum, recordatus misericordiae suae.
Chorus : Sicut locutus est ad patres nostros, Abraham et semini ejus, in secula.
Chorus : Gloria Patri, gloria Filio, gloria et Spiritui Sancto. Sicut erat in principio, et nunc, et semper et in secula seculorum. Amen. | He hath holpen his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy.
As he promised to our forefathers, Abraham and his seed forever.
Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen. |

Johannes Brahms (1833-1897) completed his Vier Ernste Gesänge, Op. 121, in 1896. The fatal illness of Brahms' oldest and dearest friend Clara Schumann affected him deeply and may have given his thoughts the grave turn that led to the composition of these songs, although in his great choral works Brahms was also preoccupied with the mystery of death and the destiny of mankind. Many believe that they mark the summit of Brahms' achievement as a song writer. Originally composed for bass solo and piano, we hear them today in a new orchestration by Eric Simon.

VIER ERNSTE GESÄNGE

I

DENN ES GEHET DEM MENSCHEN
(Ecclesiastes 3:19-22)

For the fate of men and the fate of beasts is alike; as one dies, so dies the other. They all have the same breath, and man has no more than the beasts; for all is vanity. All go to one place; all are from the dust, and all turn to dust again. Who knows whether the spirit of man goes upward and the spirit of the beast goes down to the earth? Therefore I saw that there is nothing better than that a man should be happy in his labor, for that is his lot; for who can bring him to see what will be after him?

II

ICH WANDTE MICH UND SAHE AN
(Ecclesiastes 4:1-3)

I traveled far and saw all the oppressions suffered under the sun. And behold, there was much crying made by the oppressed, for they had no one to comfort them. Those who were their oppressors were too mighty, therefore no comfort came to them. And I thought the dead who are already dead more fortunate than the living who are still alive; but better than both is he who has not yet been, and has not seen the evil deeds that are done under the sun.

There is a remarkable versatility in the music of Felix Mendelssohn (1809-1847). He wrote oratorios and other sacred choral works, symphonies, concertos, chamber music, piano and organ music, songs and partsongs, and music for the stage. One of his principle objectives in music was simply to give pleasure to the listener. Of all Mendelssohn's works, the partsongs (four of which will be sung today) reflect most clearly the conventional well-mannered social background in which he developed. The son of a rich banker, Mendelssohn had none of the struggles with poverty which we so often find in connection with other composers.

LIEDER FÜR GEMISCHTEN CHOR

FAREWELL TO THE FOREST

O valleys wide, o mountains, o lovely green forest,
Beloved home of my pleasures and pains!
Ever apart from the rustle of the busy world
Spread once more your green canopy about me.
In the forest is written a solemn word
Of good works and love and treasures kept by man.
Faithfully I have read the word, simple and true,
And the message, unmistakably clear, has permeated my whole being.
Soon I shall leave you, going as a stranger into the unknown,
Observing, in variegated lanes, life's passing stream
Until your spirit seeks me out,
Thus keeping young my heart.

GERMANY

Through the dark night a raging storm
Lashes the budding branches,
The wind rings out a song of old,
The song of the German Emperor.
My heart is young, my heart is heavy
And cannot keep from hearing
The clang of an army in the clouds,
The beating of eagles' wings.

III

O TOD, WIE BITTER BIST DU
(Ecclesiasticus 41:1-2)

O death, how bitter art thou to a man reminded of thee that enjoyeth pleasant days free of anxiety; to him whose fortunes prosper and who eateth well. O death, how kind art thou to those in need, to the old and feeble, to those in great trouble, neither expecting nor hoping for better days to come.

IV

WENN ICH MIT MENSCHEN-
UND MIT ENGELSZUNGEN
(I Corinthians 13:1-3, 12-13)

Though I speak with the tongues of men and angels, and have not love, I am but as sounding brass or clanging cymbal. And if I prophesy and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have all faith so as to remove mountains, and have not love, I am nothing. And if I give all my possessions to the poor, and if I deliver my body to be burned, but have not love, it profiteth me nothing. For now we see as in a mirror dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall understand fully, even as I have been fully understood. Now abideth faith, hope, and love, these three; but the greatest of these is love.

SONG OF THE LARK

What heavenly tone, o lark, your song!
It rises, it lilts in delight.
Take me from here, I'll sing with you,
We'll rise through the clouds to the sun.

SPRING CELEBRATION

Sweet golden day of spring!
Intimately charming!
If ever a song in me arise,
Should it not be my fortune today?
Why, at this time,
be concerned with labor?
Spring is a high festival:
Let me rest and pray.

A thousand hearts in secret pound,
Listening, as does mine;
They hear the ring and boldly wait
The dawn of another day.
O Germany, resplendent bride,
You slumber ever deeper,
When do you awaken her with drumbeats loud,
When do you guide her home,
my Emperor!

Porgy and Bess, a "folk opera" composed by George Gershwin to a libretto by DuBose Heyward, was first produced in Boston in 1935. Although Gershwin's "labor of love" (as he described it) met with both critical opposition and financial loss during his lifetime, it has become in the last twenty-five years the most performed and best loved American opera. Sent abroad by the State Department, Porgy and Bess proved to be a triumph in Europe, South America, and Canada. In 1955 it was welcomed into La Scala in Milan, the first opera by an American composer ever to be performed there.

OVERTURE

SUMMER-TIME

Miss Cobb

A summer evening in Catfish Row. From a balcony a mother sings her baby a lullaby, while in the street below a crap game begins.

A WOMAN IS A SOMETIME THING

Mr. Warfield

Jake, a fisherman, takes the baby from his wife, Clara, and "advises" it in song. Robbins enters the crap game over his wife Serena's objections. The crap game erupts in violence as the brutal stevedore Crown kills Robbins and runs away. Later, in Serena's room, Robbins' body lies on a bed in the center of the room. The room is filled with mourners.

OVERFLOW

Beverly Brown,
soloist

As contributions are placed in the saucer for burying expenses, the mourners are urged to make it "overflow" lest the body be claimed by the Health Department and turned over to medical students.

MY MAN'S GONE NOW

Miss Cobb

With the "wake" still in progress, Serena gives expression to her grief in one of the opera's most poignant melodies.

THE PROMISE' LAN'

Ann Spauschus,
soloist

After the undertaker arrives and agrees to bury the body for the amount collected in the saucer, the atmosphere turns festive as Robbins' friends look toward a reunion in the "Promise' Lan'."

OH, I GOT PLENTY O' NUTTIN'

Mr. Warfield

A month has passed and Bess, once Crown's woman, has come to live with Porgy. Porgy's happiness is evident for all to see in this song.

BESS, YOU IS MY WOMAN NOW

Miss Cobb and
Mr. Warfield

Porgy drives off the evil Sporting Life who has tried to get Bess started on "happy dust." Porgy and Bess pledge their love and fidelity.

OH, I CAN'T SIT DOWN

The inhabitants of Catfish Row go on a lodge picnic to Kittiwah Island!

IT AIN'T NECESSARILY SO

Mr. Warfield

Sporting Life, the tempter, sings and dances for the picnickers who join in the fun.

ANDANTINO

The picnic over, the fishermen go out to sea only to be caught in a great storm. Jake's boat is wrecked and Clara rushes out into the storm to save him. Crown, who had been hiding out on Kittiwah Island, suddenly appears, taunts Porgy and the other men for their cowardice and follows Clara out into the storm. The music of the Andantino is that of a requiem for those lost in the storm.

CON BRIO

Later Crown returns, having survived the storm, and is killed by Porgy. After Porgy is taken away by the police, Bess resorts to Sporting Life's "happy dust" and goes off with him to New York. Music from the Overture ushers us into the final scene.

O LAW, I'M
ON MY WAY
Mr. Warfield

Porgy is released and returns to find Bess gone. After asking "Which way is New York?", he calls for his goat cart, ignoring the pleas of his friends. The story ends on a hopeful note as Porgy heads "North" to look for his Bess.

(1685-1750)

(Choral from Cantata No. 40, "Dazu ist erschienen")

IN DULCI JUBILO.....R. L. DE PEARSALL

The melody employed as a cantus firmus in this composition was found in a German Protestant song book published in the year 1570. Apparently it is much older, being an ancient Roman Catholic melody that Martin Luther retained in the Protestant Service because of its beauty. Traditionally, it is sung during Christmas-eve processions with a text half in Latin, half in the vernacular.

CHRISTMAS SONG.....H. DE HERZOGENBERG

Heinrich von Herzogenberg, (b. Graz, 1843; d. Wiesbaden, 1900) was a professor of music and choral director active in Leipzig and Berlin. Composer of a number of larger works, including symphonies and oratorios, Herzogenberg is best remembered today for his lovely six-part Christmas Song.

ACT I. The short overture runs straight into an enchanting little song by Belmont which is over before we have fully realized its delicate charm. Belmont has come to the palace of the Pasha Selim in Turkey to seek his affianced bride Constance who has been captured by pirates and sold into the Pasha's harem. He catches sight of Osmin who is working in the garden and singing a lugubrious ditty about the plight of an old man in love with a young girl. But Belmont can get nothing out of Osmin who roughly orders him off the premises. The old man grunts and goes on with his work. He is joined by Pedrillo, Belmont's former servant, who has got a job at the palace to be Constance's waiting-maid, Blonda. Now Osmin hates the youthful Pedrillo, partly because he hates youth in any form, also because he wants Blonda for himself. In a vigorous aria he curses these young fellows who come sneaking round after the women, the music reflecting with grotesque humor his alternating moods of baffled hate and spiteful, elephantine cunning. Eventually Belmont and Pedrillo meet. Pedrillo assures him that Constance and Blonda are waiting eagerly to be rescued, and to further their plans he will present Belmont to Selim disguised as an architect. Selim has treated Constance with the utmost respect, hoping that she will learn to love him. But Constance vows that her heart belongs for ever to Belmont. Later, Selim takes Belmont into his service as an architect, and everyone is pleased—except Osmin.

ACT II. Blonda laments her fate; to be pestered by the clumsy advances of a great bear old enough to be her grandfather. Osmin tells her she must obey him. Blonda retorts that she is a free-born Englishwoman and Englishmen don't treat women that way. Then Englishmen must be mad, is Osmin's sage comment. Meanwhile, Constance is also suffering the disadvantages of having been born beautiful. In case the Pasha should grow a little tired of his old-world chivalry, she vehemently assures him that she cannot love him; neither tortures nor death can make her consent. But the plans for their escape are rapidly maturing. First, to deal with Osmin. Pedrillo enters with two flasks of wine, and during the course of a riotous duet he makes the old man helplessly drunk. The act ends with a brilliant quartet by the four lovers.

Act III. All is prepared. Outside the palace wall Belmont and Pedrillo meet by the light of the moon, Pedrillo carrying a ladder. He gives the signal — a serenade to Blonda. But—disaster! Just as they are about to get clear, Osmin, having slept off his drunkenness, surprises them. He calls the guard, the two couples are arrested and Osmin gloats over them in a terrific piece of rodomontade which is also one of the greatest bass airs ever written. The Pasha is summoned and learns that Belmont is the son of his bitterest enemy. At first he exults in this turn of fortune, but after awhile he perceives a nobler way of retribution: he despises his enemy too much to revenge himself. Belmont is free, and the four lovers may go in safety. Everyone is pleased—except Osmin.

The Kentucky Opera Association wishes to recognize the valued co-operation of Local No. 17 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees in making our move to the Brown Theatre a reality.

ABOUT THE ARTISTS

MIKLOS BENCZE was born in Budapest, Hungary. After finishing his studies at the Municipal Conservatory of Music as a violinist, he started upon his vocal studies and received his first engagement at the Municipal Theatre in 1938. After the war he sung with the Opera in Budapest and in 1947 became leading basso of the Hungarian State Opera House in Budapest and between 1951 and 1956 was engaged as guest soloist in many European opera houses and was guest artist on broadcasts of the Austrian, Yugoslav, Hungarian and Italian radio and television networks. After arriving in the United States with his wife as refugees of the Hungarian Revolution, Mr. Bencze sang at Hunter College, Carnegie Hall, International House and over station WNYC. In September 1958 Mr. Bencze joined the music faculty at Baylor University as professor of voice and as artist in residence. Since his arrival in Texas, he has sung with the Houston and Austin symphonies and New Orleans Opera and has been re-engaged with the Houston and Fort Worth opera companies.

DIANA YEAMAN, a resident of Louisville, was a member of the University of Southern California Opera Theatre directed by Dr. Walter Ducloux. She has sung in such operas as Falstaff, L'Heure Espagnol, Simon Boccanegra, Die Meistersinger and Wozzeck. Locally, Mrs. Yeaman is well known for her appearances with the Wandering Minstrels in performances of Gilbert & Sullivan's The Sorcerer and Pirates of Penzance. Her first appearance with the K.O.A. was in the role of Frasquita in Carmen.

JAY WILKEY is currently on the faculty of the School of Church Music at Southern Baptist Seminary. Born in Irvington, Kentucky, Mr. Wilkey graduated from Madisonville High School and shortly thereafter moved with his family to New Mexico. He received the Bachelor of Music degree from Eastern New Mexico University and the Master of Arts degree from the State University of Iowa and is now completing the dissertation for the Ph.D. from Indiana University. While completing his residence at Indiana, Mr. Wilkey sang many operatic roles and was the last student to have sung the role of Parsifal at I.U. He has also sung with the Casa Manana Musicals in Fort Worth, the Abilene Philharmonic and most recently with the Santa Fe Opera Company.

DON PETERSEN, a former scholarship student at the University of Louisville School of Music and finalist in the 1960 Chicago Metropolitan Opera Auditions has appeared in several K.O.A. productions including La Boheme, Cavalleria Rusticana, The King and the Wise Woman and Carmen.

BARBARA CUNNINGHAM, a former student at the University of Louisville School of Music is a resident of New Albany. She studied voice with Vittorio Trevisan in New York and has sung with the United States Army Band and the Staten Island Symphony. Last year she appeared with the K.O.A. in the roles of Papagena in the Magic Flute and Inez in Il Trovatore.

LEON SATRAN, a senior in the University of Louisville School of Medicine, has appeared in several productions at the Belknap Playhouse and has played with the American Savoyards Company, the Corning Summer Festival Theatre, and stock companies in Monmouth, Maine and Washington, D.C. His first appearance with the K.O.A. was last winter's production of Orff's The King and the Wise Woman.

LEONARD ROSE

CELLIST

SAMUEL SANDERS at the Piano

HE played with fiery involvement and intense concentration; his dark-hued pungent tone was consistently eloquent and his comprehensive technique made every hazard seem nonexistent" (Los Angeles Times), is the kind of praise accorded Leonard Rose wherever he appears, whether in Europe or America. The phenomenal success of this superior artist can best be illustrated by the fact that the words, "Leonard Rose Plays Tonight," nearly always guarantee a sold-out house.

If a sold-out house is one indication of the way in which Leonard Rose's art has captured the imagination of concertgoers the world over, his consistently sold-out tours are yet another sign. His itinerary abroad this year spanned five months, and included appearances as soloist with orchestra as well as in chamber music concerts with violinist Isaac Stern and pianist Eugene

PROGRAM

1. Adagio, from Organ Toccata in C major

Bach-Siloti

The C major Toccata is the first of the three great organ Toccatas written by Bach during the earlier period of his career, when he was organist at Weimar. There are three divisions in the work, the middle one being an Adagio. It is a beautiful song movement, whose long, rhapsodical and decorative melody recalls those slow movements for the violin in which Bach poured out his soul so freely... This quality makes it especially suitable for the cello.

Adagio and Allegro in A major

Luigi Boccherini

Luigi Boccherini (1743-1805) was already famous at fourteen years of age both as composer and cellist. His facility as a composer was so great that he has been described as a fountain of which it was only necessary to turn the cock to produce a stream of music. His originality also was notable and had its influence on the progress of the art.

2. Sonata No. 2 in F major

Johannes Brahms

Allegro vivace
Adagio affettuoso
Allegro passionato
Allegro molto

This sonata was written in 1886 and is one of Brahms's most mature and intimate works. The first performance was given in Vienna on November 14, 1887, with Hausmann, the 'cellist, and Brahms at the Piano.

Allegro vivace: The piano begins with tremolos in both hands; the main theme, which is first heard on the 'cello, has broken rhythm, and is of a passionate, energetic and unrestful character. The second theme, entering in the piano, is still warmer and has more freedom. Brilliant semiquaver passages follow and lead back to the tremolos on the cello. The development begins with bustling tremolos in the piano. The cello has snatches of its restless theme; this gives way to a subdued chromatic section, and both instruments seem to be in undertones. The main theme returns in a tender and caressing version. Five bars of vivace conclude the movement brilliantly.

Adagio affettuoso: This is among the finest of Brahms's slow movements and it is made poignant by the pizzicato of the cello against the sustained theme in the piano. The movement is worked up to a tremendous climax and then the original theme returns and it ends in a peaceful mood.

The Allegro passionato opens with a mezzo voce passage in the piano and a counter-theme in the 'cello. Syncopated chords on the piano lead to a climax. The melody of the trio flows smoothly and sweetly. The Allegro molto, which concludes the sonata, is in rondo form.

INTERMISSION

Variations on a Rococo Theme, Opus 33 Peter Ilyitch Tchaikovsky

The use of the word "rococo" to describe the theme of this work has often puzzled listeners. It has been suggested that Tchaikovsky so labelled his original theme to prevent anyone from supposing he offered it as a sample of his true style. Strictly speaking, "rococo" belongs to the first half of the eighteenth century, having begun as an ornate style of architecture. Later the word was applied to excessive daintiness and preciousness in art, and then somewhat loosely promoted to a term of praise to describe certain traits in the music of Haydn and Mozart. It is doubtless in the sense of 18th Century grace and charm that Tchaikovsky employed the word.

Tchaikovsky's "rococo" theme is followed by seven variations rounded off by a coda. A "ritornello," or refrain, recurs between sections, imparting further charm and unity to the composition.

The Swan C. Saint-Saëns-Godowsky

"The Swan" is from Saint-Saëns suite "Carnival des animaux" (The Animals' Carnival). The beauty and grace of the swan are realistically suggested in this exquisite number. The piano pictures a rippling, shimmering lake upon which the swan swims slowly and majestically. The great Pavlowa made the melody famous by her dance interpretation.

The Little White Donkey Jacques Ibert

A humorous bit of music, aptly described by its title. Ibert is a modern French composer, who has written many works for the piano.

Gavotte tendre Paul and Lucien Hillemacher

The brothers Paul and Lucien Hillemacher were born in Paris, one in 1842 and the other in 1860. Both studied at the Conservatory and both took the 1st Grand prix de Rome—the elder with a Cantata Judith and the younger with a Cantata Fingal. Well known as composers, they are remarkable for writing all their scores in collaboration.

Introduction and Polonaise brillante, Op. 3 Frederic Chopin

The Polonaise is a majestic promenade rather than an outright dance; in olden times it always opened a great ball in Poland. Liszt wrote that it was "intended to draw attention particularly to the men, to their good looks, their martial bearing and courteous countenance." Chopin took this ostentatious and worldly measure and made it sing the tragedy of Poland, its heroic struggles, its agony and its invincible hope.

Istomin at virtually every major summer festival from Israel to Edinburgh. In Israel, where Rose was appearing for the third consecutive season, his engagements included eight appearances as soloist with the Israel Philharmonic; in London he was heard with the London Symphony conducted by Pierre Monteux playing both Bloch's "Schelomo" and the Brahms Double Concerto with Isaac Stern.

Leonard Rose's 1963-64 tour of the United States is as varied as it is extensive, and features such special events as three performances as soloist with the Musica Aeterna Orchestra at New York's Metropolitan Museum; concerts in Philadelphia and New York with Eugene Ormandy, the Philadelphia Orchestra, and fellow trio members Stern and Istomin playing the Brahms Double Concerto and the Beethoven Triple Concerto. In Houston, Rose plays the new William Schuman Cello Concerto, "Song of Orpheus," which he commissioned through the Ford Foundation, and which he premiered last season with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra. Other orchestras with which Rose appears during his current transcontinental tour include those of Cleveland, Buffalo, San Antonio, Brooklyn, San Francisco, Portland, and Washington, D. C.

Columbia Masterworks Records has added another superb Rose Album to the catalog with two cello masterpieces, the Schumann Concerto in A minor, with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, and Bloch's "Schelomo," with Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra. Another disc scheduled for early release is the Tchaikovsky "Rococo Variations," also with Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Born in Washington, D. C., and brought up in Florida, Rose was a student of Felix Salmond at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute of Music. In 1938, he was engaged to play in Toscanini's NBC Symphony, and after only three weeks was appointed assistant first cellist by the Maestro. In 1944, he was appointed first cellist of the New York Philharmonic, and his last appearance as a member of that organization was as soloist at the 1951 Edinburgh Festival.

Mr. Rose's cello is one of the rare Amati instruments, dated 1662.

O MAGNUM MYSTERIUM.....THOMAS LUIS DE VICTORIA
(1549-1611)

"O great mystery and wondrous sacrament, that animals might see the birth of the Lord as he lay in the manger. O Blessed Virgin, who was worthy of bearing our Lord Jesus Christ, Alleluia."

O REJOICE, YE CHRISTIANS, LOUDLY....JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH
(1685-1750)

(Choral from Cantata No. 40, "Dazu ist erschienen")

IN DULCI JUBILO.....R. L. DE PEARSALL

The melody employed as a cantus firmus in this composition was found in a German Protestant song book published in the year 1570. Apparently it is much older, being an ancient Roman Catholic melody that Martin Luther retained in the Protestant Service because of its beauty. Traditionally, it is sung during Christmas-eve processions with a text half in Latin, half in the vernacular.

CHRISTMAS SONG.....H. DE HERZOGENBERG

Heinrich von Herzogenberg, (b. Graz, 1843; d. Wiesbaden, 1900) was a professor of music and choral director active in Leipzig and Berlin. Composer of a number of larger works, including symphonies and oratorios, Herzogenberg is best remembered today for his lovely six-part Christmas Song.
